KIN Gans beat Nelson." That is all
A feller seems to hear this fall
When he wanders up and down
'Round the streets o' this here town.
"Battlin' Nelson goes an' does
'This' an' 'That' an' makes things buz.
Wan's to marry chorus girls,
'lth their powder an' false curls."
An' Gans ain't never out o' sight—
"Do you think he'll win this fight?"

Feller in the grocery 'lows
Gans has proved hissself bughouse,
An' Nelson, consequences is,
Acts like everything wuz his.
Feller says there ain't no use
Ner no kind of a excuse
Fer that colored pusson to Give in like he seems to do.
Thinks if he'd stand up, by gum,
He'd help his chanst o' winnin' some.

THEY'S a feller right next door
Says 'at Nelson makes him sore,
Fightin' 'gainst a coon that way,
Who's got him beaten anyway
You figure it. The feller thinks
'At Nelson's chanst is worth two drinks,
Er maybe one; an' says he knows
A man who's seen 'em all, an' goes
To every fight, an' knows 'at Gans
Kin upset all Nelson's plans.

I ain't no expert, ner I ain't
Never claimed 'at I could paint
From my brain the things to be,
Like you can frum memory.
Ef I should prognosticate,
An' jine in this here debate,
Why I wouldn't say that I Thought Bat wuz so awful sly;
Ner I wouldn't tack no blame
To Gans, fer I think I'd name
Billy Nolan.

GANS WINS.

AND BAT GOT HIS.

This Is the Way the Coming Winter Auto Season Appears to Cartoonist Herrihan.

BEFORE THE FALL--ONE DOWN ALL DOWN.

A political cartoon by Geo. Herriman depicting Theodore Roosevelt in a saloon setting. Roosevelt, wearing a top hat and tuxedo, sits at a desk while several men in cowboy hats and suits surround him. The men are making humorous remarks about Roosevelt's identity and the "love feast". A man in a cowboy hat on the right blows a horn. The cartoon is signed "Geo. Herriman" at the bottom right.

This Is YOUR Day. How Are YOU Going to Vote?

This cartoon tells a simple and truthful story. This is the day you must make your choice between the Southern Pacific "Push" candidates and William H. Langdon, who stands for independence and clean government.

You cannot vote for Langdon without voting AGAINST Southern Pacific domination in state government. YOU KNOW that if you vote for Mr. Langdon you will DISPLEASE Mr. Herrin and the other S.P. bosses and jobbers.

Do you WANT the Southern Pacific railroad to continue to run this state or do you want a state government that will be run in the interests of the people?

If you vote for Gillett or Bell you will simply drop your ballot into one of the boxes Mr. Herrin is holding in his hands. You CAN'T vote for either WITHOUT VOTING FOR SOUTHERN PACIFIC INTERESTS.

CHAPTER I

The appearance of Mr. Late at the office shortly after 8 a. m. caused the remainder of the office staff to gaze with suspicion. The exclamations of "Oh's," sounded spontaneously, created the impression to the outsider that a pernicious young bull pup had been visiting the office. According to the oldest member of the office staff this was Mr. Late's first offense. It had been generally conceded that the gentleman was a victim of "sleep-eritis," and that the ozone of the early morning was obnoxious to him. Usually at this hour the slothful Mr. Late was resting in quiet repose in an Ostermoor. The usual complaint about "not being able to sleep with the light in your eyes" was humorous conversation to him. He abhorred the man who complained of insomnia.

CHAPTER II

But allowing that Mr. Late's habits were a trifle abnormal and that he was a habitual sleeper, the fact remained that on this particular morning he was early, for which, to the thinking of his fellow-workmen, an explanation was forthcoming. Inasmuch as Mr. Late was the accused, therefore he arose as the defendant. His uneasy manner was noticeable as he confronted his co-workers to explain:

CHAPTER III

"It all happened this way," replied Mr. Late. "The New Year resolution idea has appealed to me and everything relative to the forming of good habits has caught my eye. In a few words, I have succumbed to the 'Examiner's' call to 'Get the Habit' and read the exchange column of that paper. That's the answer. Through its column I have been able to secure a clock of regular habits in exchange for that old dictionary of mine. It's a picnic, boys. By the bye, it's a picnic for two. While I got the clock the other fellow has the dictionary. He must be as happy as I am. You can do the same, boys."

THE CONVERSION OF COLONEL JIM TO THE AUTOMOBILE THING.

A Fable Without George's Aid.

THE automobile People have Landed Colonel Jim for a Touring Car. This bit of News should be set in Red Type and Played Up to Beat the Band, for Colonel Jim was about as Tough a party as was ever Hooked by a slick Buzz-wagon Specialist.

Colonel Jim was Born in Old Kentucky where Everybody has the Horse Habit. The Kentuckian who does not Know Horse would be a Great Attraction in a Side Show. The Dodo Bird would not be One, Two, Three with a Rarity like That.

The Colonel was Raised down in the Blue Grass where the One to Four shots Come From. At the Tender Age of Five Years he was Posted on Horse; at sixteen he Played Them in the Louisville Pool Rooms and he made the Bookmakers Go to the Bat when he went Down the Line on a Fifty to One shot.

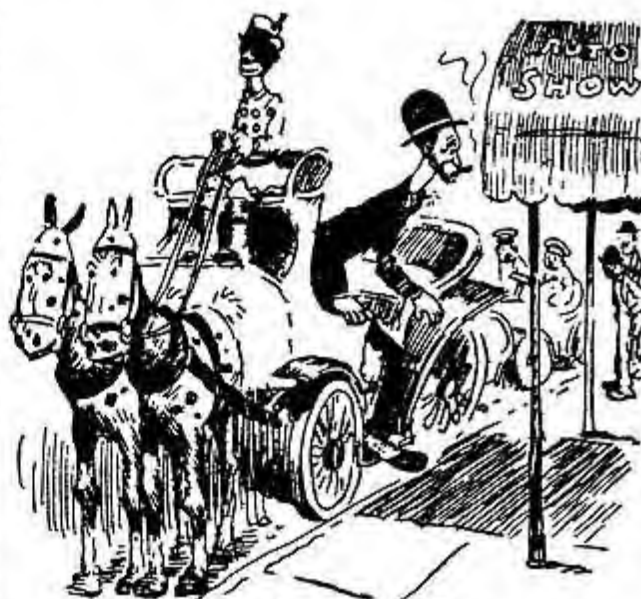

When the Colonel grew up he Stuck to Horse. There was never a time when there were not two or three Thoroughbreds eating their Heads Off in Colonel Jim's stables.

When the first Automobile came to Town, Colonel Jim did not Think Much of it. He made Sarcastic Cracks about Corn Shellers on Wheels and Prophesied that the Automobile would Not Last as long as a Gallon Demijohn at a Mount-Stirling reunion.

Some of the Colonel's friends bought Automobiles and Invited him to Take a Ride. The Colonel Cut Them Dead and Stuck to his two-story Trap with the Red Wheels.

"Gasoline is no Good except to Cook with," said the Colonel.

When Jim Morley gave his Automobile Parade, the Colonel hitched up the Bays and drove down the Main Street to show the poor Misguided Mechanics what the Real Thing looked like.

Stripper's Guide Scan

AND NOW THE COLONEL IS GOING TO HAVE A REAL BARNEY OLDFIELD FACE —

When the Auto Show opened last Monday Night, the Colonel told the Boy to get the Thoroughbreds up Regardless and Tie Ribbons in Their Tails. He drove down to the Show and Hitched His Beetles at the Front Door. He said he went just to show them that there were no Hard Feelings.

As soon as the Colonel Poked his Nose in the door a Smart Guy took him by the Hand and led him over where the Best Machine in the World was on Exhibition. The Smart Guy found that the Kentuckian did not Warm Up at first, but after a few Preliminary Passes he Caught the Colonel's eye and after that There was Nothing to it. He explained to the Colonel that This is the Age of Progress and the man who lingers behind the bunch Cashes no Tickets.

After allowing this Hot One to Soak In, the Smart Guy began to show the Colonel the Good Points of the particular Mess of Machinery which he was Paid to Boost. He talked about Crank shafts and Wheel bases and oil Feeders, and it was not Long before he had the Colonel on the Ropes and waiting for the Sponge to come in. Seeing that he had the Blue Grass party on Dizzy Street, the Smart Guy came in Close and Cleaned up the Job.

He took the Colonel Home in his Automobile and it was not until he had set out the Pail for the Milk and Locked the Front Door that Colonel Jim Remembered he had Left the Beetles standing in Front of the Rink. So he went out to the Barn and Told the Boy to go down and Bring Maud S and Silkwood Home.

And now the Colonel is going to have the Barney Oldfield Face and the Charlie Burman Hump and he will talk about Sliding Gears and Mufflers and Jump Sparks and be as much of a Pest as any of Them.

The evidence of graft in the sale and use of county road oil and of the irregularities that otherwise exist, especially in Supervisor P. J. Wilson's district, will be placed before the grand jury at its next session. The inquisitorial body will be drawn this spring.

District Attorney Fredericks made this announcement yesterday at the hearing into the "Examiner" charges of graft before the Board of Supervisors. It was supposed that the District Attorney himself intended to pass upon the merits of the charges, but he will content himself with presenting the facts as adduced.

Reluctant as he heretofore has been to express an opinion upon glaring irregularities, if no more severe term may be applied, the District Attorney yesterday was forced to declare that the law had been violated.

This opinion came with the admission of Road Foreman C. M. Brown of Santa Monica that demands for the services of his teams had been put in in the names of the drivers.

"This is a violation of the law," said Mr. Fredericks.

MAYOR HARPER ON TOUR.

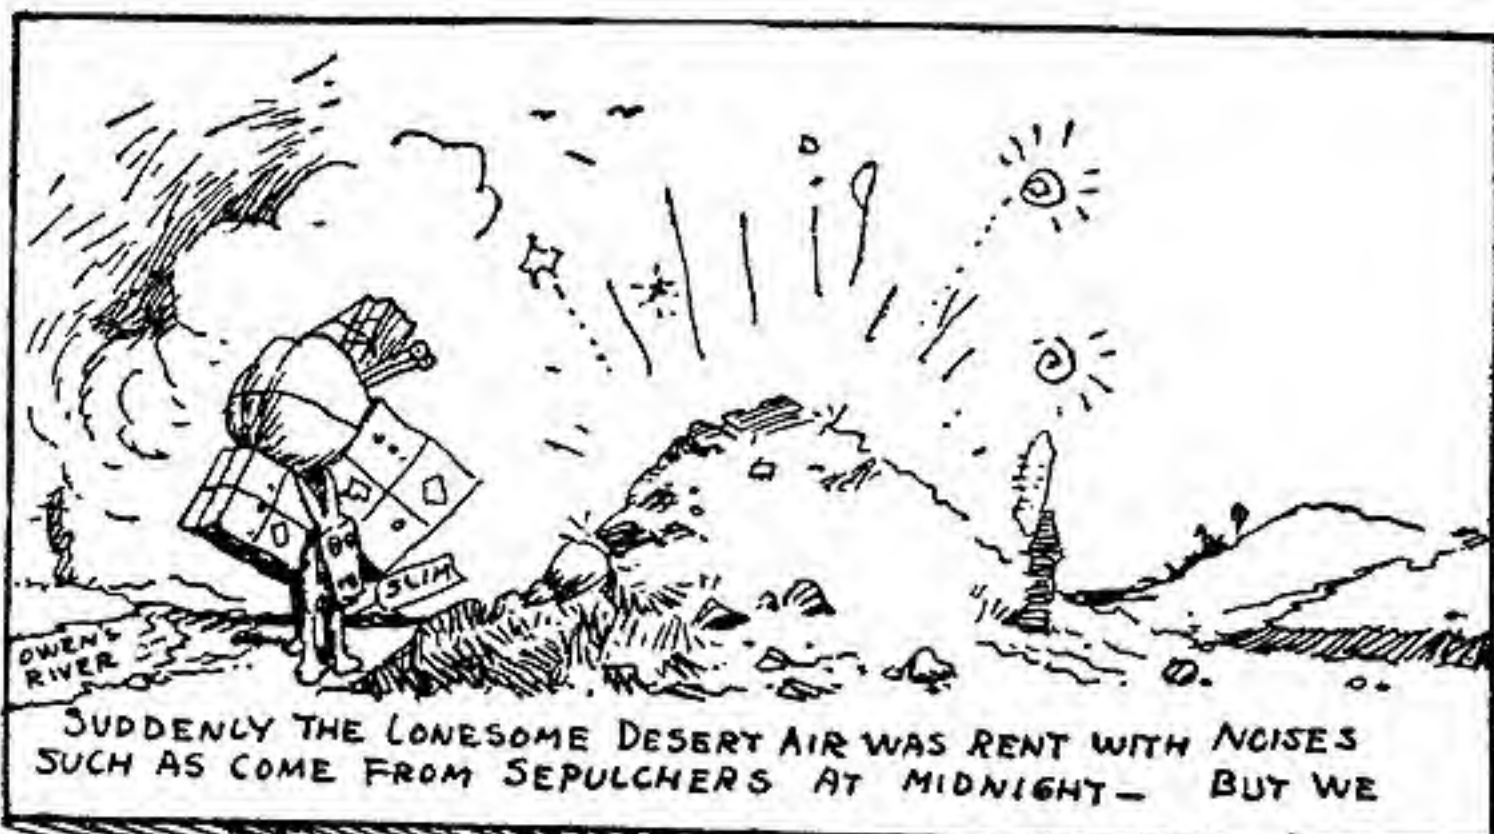

APRIL 18th MOJAVE DESERT -

WHILE DROMGOLD IS PREPARING THE VESPER MEAL, I SIT ME DOWN TO WRITE "TONY", THAT WHATEVER ELSE MAY HAPPEN I HAVE NOT YET BEEN INFLUENCED,

WE ENCOUNTERED A "DEAD SOLDIER" STRETCHED OUT IN EMPTY GLORY, NEATH THE DESERT SUN, WE DISMOUNTED AND UNCOVERED IN REVERENCE — "BARNEY" WAS VISIBLY AFFECTED — HE WEPT —

SUDDENLY THE LONESOME DESERT AIR WAS RENT WITH NOISES SUCH AS COME FROM SEPULCHERS AT MIDNIGHT — BUT WE

SOON DISCOVERED IT TO BE NONE BUT OUR OLD FRIEND "SCOTTY" PREPARING TO LEAVE FOR THE BIG BRIGHT LANES OF OUR TOWN —

P.S. THE EVENINGS ARE MOST PLEASANT — WE CAN LOOK THROUGH THE AIR HOLE AND SEE AS MANY AS TWO AND THREE STARS AT ONE TIME — THE MOON UNFORTUNATLY RISES ON THE OTHER SIDE — I WONDER IF THE CITIZENS OF L.A. THINK I'M EXTRAVAGANT ? ANY WAY "TONY" SAYS I MUST BE GOOD, AND B'GOSH I WILL BE GOOD — TOMORROW IS THE 19th —

He Keeps a Diary on His Owens Valley Trip.

MAYOR HARPER ON TOUR. II.

MOJAVE DESERT APRIL 19 TODAY WAS FRIDAY AND WE SPENT THE EARLY HOURS OF THE DAY IN FISHING FOR THE DAY'S REPASTS. THE ANGLING RECEIPTS WERE DROMGOLD A FINE SPECKLED CACTUS FED DESERT STURGEON, BARNEYS' CATCH WAS A LOVELY SPECIMEN OF FORTY-ROD ELECTRIC EEL FISH THE REST OF US WERE NOT IN LUCK WE DINED ON CANNED BEANS AND STUFFED MANGOES.

WE ARE NOW SOME DISTANCE FROM MAIL OR TELEGRAPH SERVICE, SO I SENT WORD BY PIGEON TO TONY TELLING HIM THAT ALL'S WELL, AND THAT NO INFLUENCE HOWEVER STRONG CAN JAR ME FROM THE PATH OF DUTY.

"BARNEY" SAYS HE KNOWS NOW WHERE ALL THE SNAKES BEAT IT TO, WHEN THEY WERE EVICTED FROM ERIN.

WE RAN ACROSS AN ANCIENT TRAVELLER WHO BADE US TO GUARD OUR YOUNG LIVES FROM THE RAVAGES OF RATTTLERS. FOR THE SAKE OF MY COLLEAGUES I FELL FOR IT AND PURCHASED

THE SPEND-O-METER REGISTERED AN EXPENDITURE OF A MEASLY $73.09 & SO FAR AH ME! CAN IT BE THAT MY PEOPLE THINK ME A-SPEND THRIFT?

OH SEE THE FOUR LEGGED FLAMINGOES

LATER IN THE DAY WE SCARED UP A BAND OF THOSE OLD TIME CAMELS HEADED FOR L.A. TO MIX WITH THE BIG SHRINER DOINGS. NO, WE HAVE NOT YET HAD OCCASION TO USE THE SNAKE BITE CURE, AS YET—

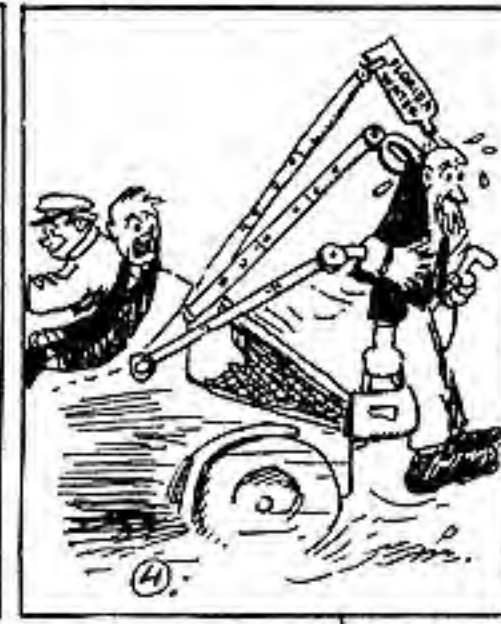

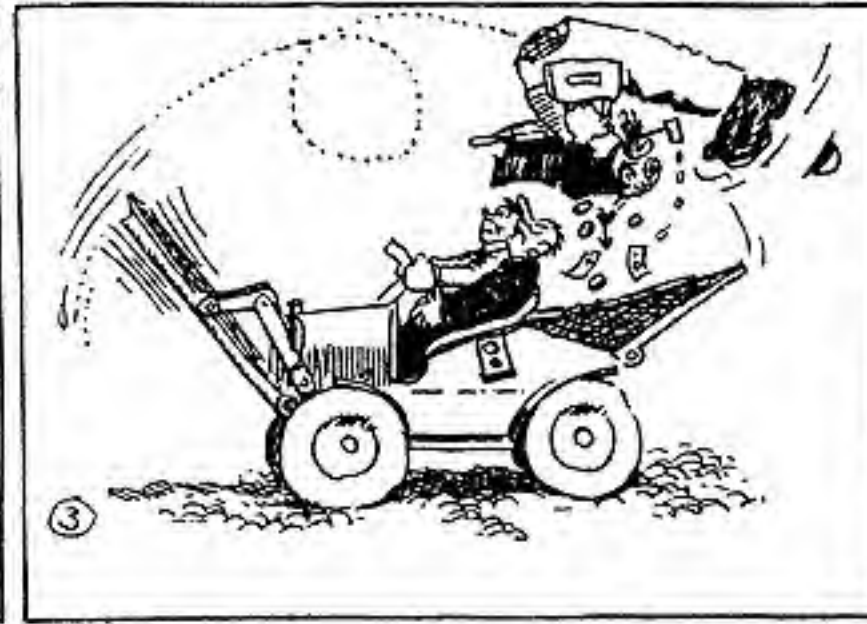

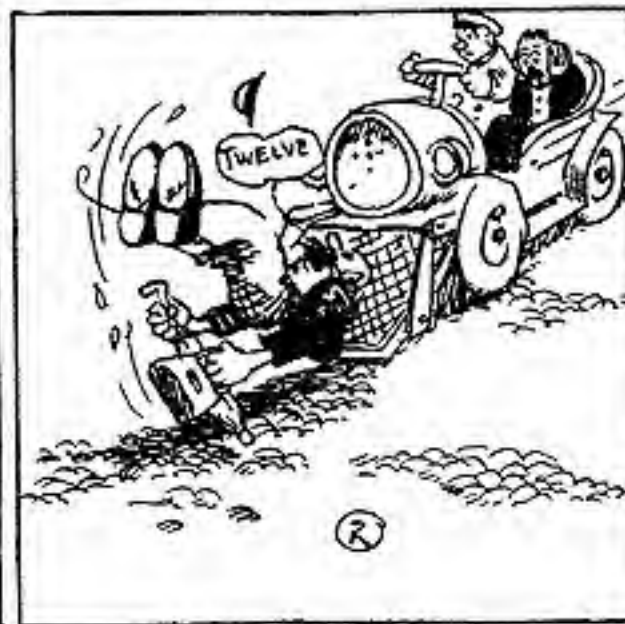

WE CLOSED THE DAY BY SINGING THAT DAINTY DITTY ENTITLED THE OLD SOAKEM BUCKET. RENDERED BY THE OWENS RIVER COMEDY FOUR COMPOSED OF ME AND BARNEY CLAMPITT AND DROMGOLD.

DOCKWEILER FURNISHED A FINE BIT OF PROP SETTING AFTER WHICH WE RETIRED— TOMORROW IS SATURDAY, SO WE CLOSE AT NOON

WHAT THE FIGHTERS SAY:

BY JIMMY BRITT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.— I am strong, in good shape, made the weight easily and am quite confident I will win. I know Gans is a great fighter, has a world of experience and all that, but he has only a pair of hands like myself, and when we put the gloves on in the ring I figure I will have just as good a chance as he has to win. Joe Gans can't go on winning forever, and I am just as sure I will get him as I was that I would get Nelson. I am down to 132 and have done nothing for two days but take a jog on the road. I'll win, that's the one best bet.

BY JOE GANS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.— I wish to say that I have never in all my experience entered the ring in better condition or more confident of winning. I consider Britt a good, game boy, but think I have too much class for him. I am betting on myself and want all my friends to have a good bet down, as I could rather beat Jimmy Britt than any other man in the ring, barring one. If Britt beats me, I will take my hat off to him and consider him the greatest 133-pound man in the world. I will offer no excuses, but simply say I have met a better man.

SAN FRANCISCO GAME TODAY OPENS ANGELS' 5 WEEKS' SESSION AT HOME.

Will the Seals Add to Their Percentage in the Los Angeles Series? Cartoonist Herriman Believes They Will Not.

With Crippled Team, Berry's Men Will Try to Beat Out Other Clubs in Dash Down Stretch to Wire.

BY C. E. VAN LOAN.

TODAY'S the day! The Seals, fresh from their long trip to the land of roses and crawfish, will hook up with Hen Berry's Homing Pigeons this afternoon at Chutes Park and in the language of Flaxy Cunningham, "an enjoyable time will be had."

Of course, it will be especially enjoyable if the Angels win. This is where Unk Hen's highly salaried young men begin their last home session. There will be five weeks of uninterrupted baseball, without consulting timetables, packing grips or washing the blue uniforms. The boys are home to stay and, though slightly crippled in spots and with a patched infield against them, they will endeavor to hold the other teams of the league even in the dash down the stretch to the wire.

Hen Berry says there is nothing to it but another pennant for Los Angeles, and Hen has been accumulating baseball wisdom all this summer long. It is true that the big feed promised by Hen some months ago is still in abeyance—and there's a fine word, too—but if the Homing Pigeons start off well he may arrange one last grand onslaught on the pork and beans.

Of course there is not the same wild enthusiasm over this pennant race as is being manifested in the East, where Philadelphia and Detroit are fighting out a heart breaking last week. The Angels are out in front by a comfortable margin and unless the Boodlers come through with an unexpected string of victories there will be little chance to nose the locals out of the pennant for 1907.

If Hen Berry knows what is good for him, he will arrange to get the scores on the Eastern games in the American League having the same announced at the park tomorrow.

Interest in the Eastern situation is intense. There has not been such an exciting season in many moons and as it stands now, the Tigers are out in front and the difference of one game lies between Detroit and Philadelphia.

Every fan in the East is holding his breath and wondering which team will crack first. Detroit has the easy sledding from now on while the Quakers are up against a stiff game with Cleveland.

Baseball has the middle of the stage at the present time. The fighters are suffering a temporary eclipse, there are no champions in training near by, the horses have not commenced to go round and round and the squarest, best sport of the lot, baseball, is due to wind up in a blaze of glory with nothing to detract or destroy the interest.

Cartoonist Herriman Portrays Some of the Ordeals Through Which the Shrine Neophyte Is Popularly Supposed to Pass.

Initiates Continue Pilgrimage Following Day, Frat' Fashion, on City Asphalt.

SEVERAL dignified gentlemen are limping this morning. They are sore but satisfied. They have been over the burning sands, and they did not let go of the rope. They are now entitled to call themselves Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

The red-fezzed hosts put another large consignment of victims over the hurdles last night at the home of hilarity on Jefferson street. The shuddering novitiates were given the route in everything that the expression implies. They went clear through to the oasis where they will rest and wait for a fresh batch of initiates. It is the only way in which they will ever get even for what was done to them last night.

The initiation into the Shrine is one that is not easily forgotten. The trip over the burning sands is well calculated to test the stoutest heart.

The travelers over the course were introduced to the rope, the fiery sand dunes, the imperial branding iron, the Bedouin grand bumper and the sacred goat.

The victims came in big bunches but their trip was not a hurried one. They stopped at all the points of interest along the route and their kindly (?) conductors saw to it that they overlooked nothing.

A few of the favored ones were paraded through the streets late in the afternoon. They were not seeing the sights. They were the sights.

Every year or so the frat boys make a similar trip. It is not an unusual thing to see a young man, clad in a spike-tailed coat, a pair of gum boots and woman's sun bonnet fishing in the middle of Spring street, but such imitations are childish inventions beside the things that were done to a select few of the new Shriners yesterday afternoon.

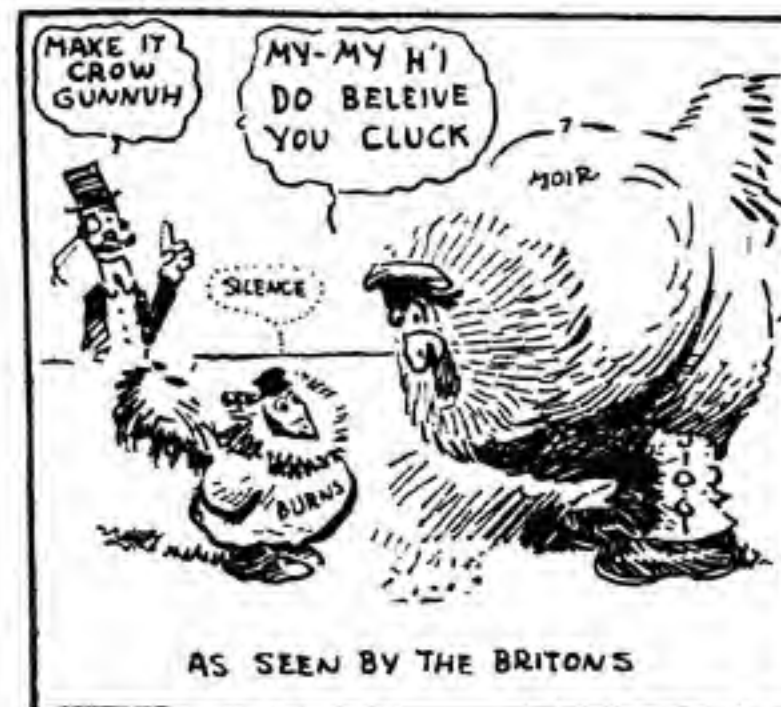

But, once safely over the sands, the initiate never makes the trip again, and every good Shriner nurses his bumps and bruises and saves his grievance to take the same out, with compound interest, on the next unhappy novitiate.

BURNS TO MAKE HIS ENGLISH DEBUT TOMORROW.

Some Timely Observations From the Pen of Cartoonist Herriman on the Fight to Take Place in England Tomorrow Night, When Tommy Burns Makes His Debut in the British Ring Against Gunner Moir.

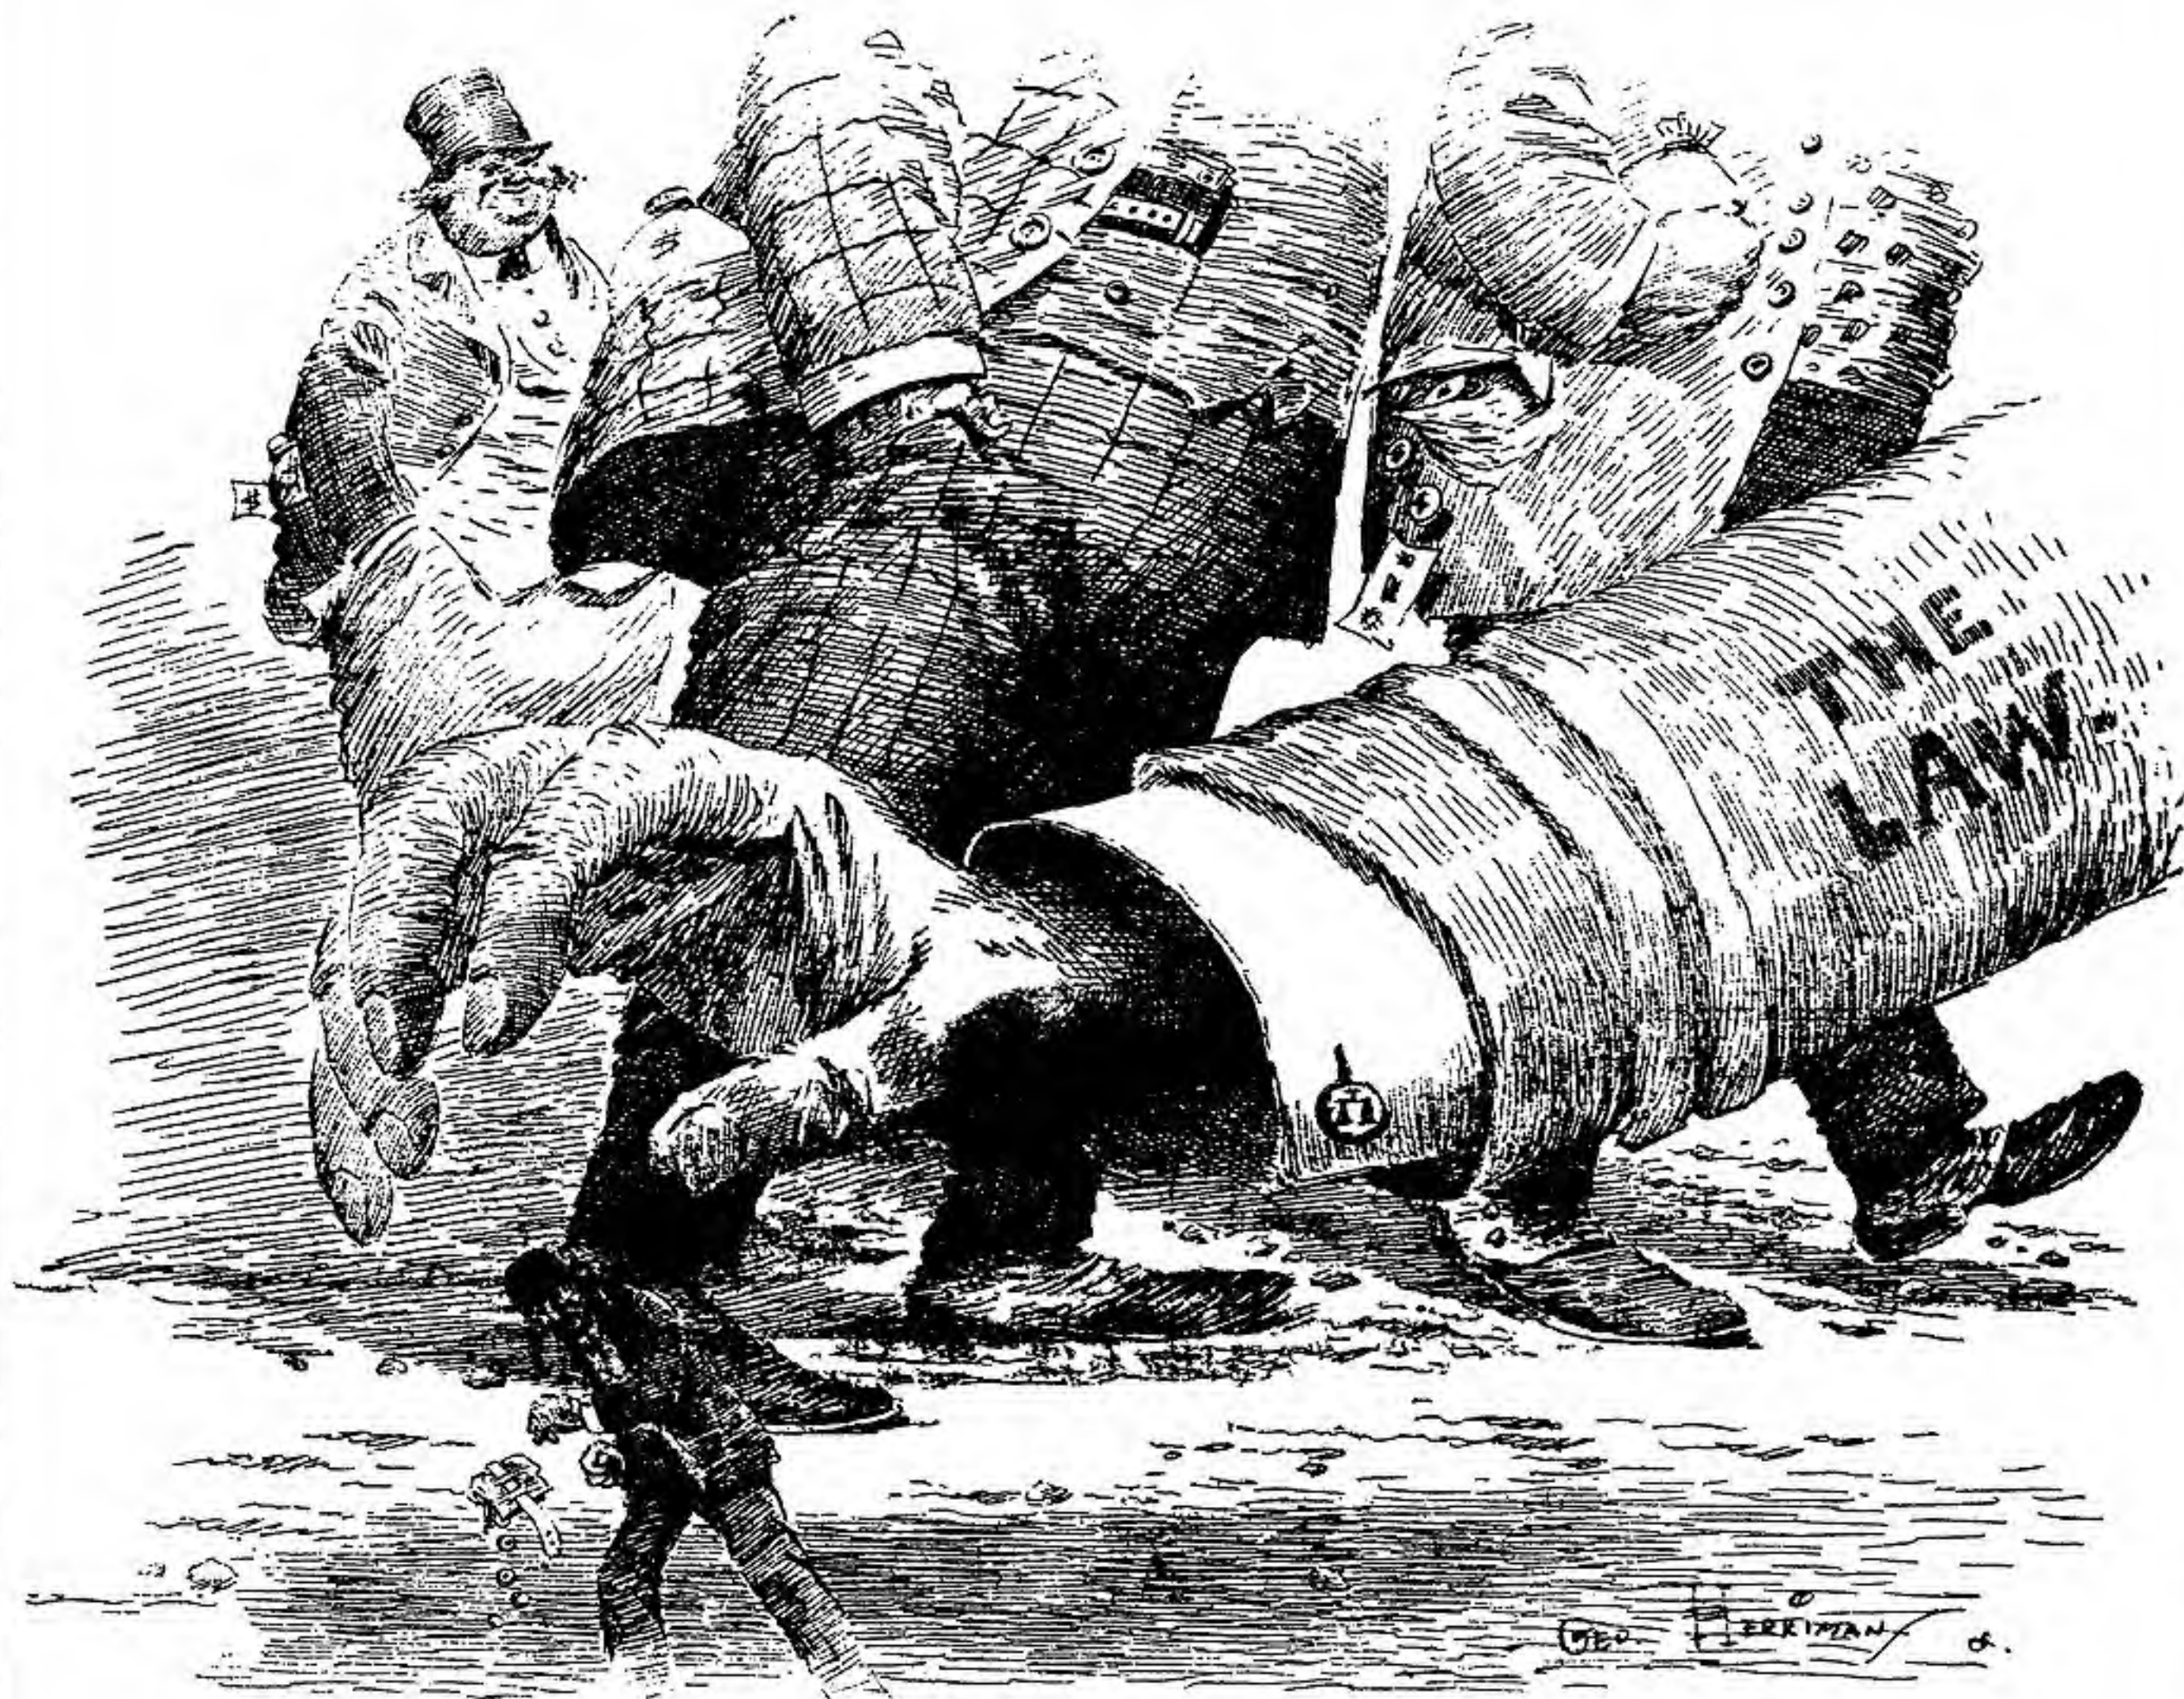

— LOADED ? — TOMMY'S DANGEROUS NEW TOY.

THE LAW'S LONG ARM.

Copyright, 1917, by American Journal-Examiner.

It Reaches Far--Sometimes It Might Better Seize the Thing Close By.

IT WASN'T SO DANGEROUS AFTER ALL.

Burns Fights With His Head

LONDON, Dec. 2.—After the fight Burns said:

"I was just warming up when Moir became groggy and showed me he wanted to quit. I received hardly any punishment. The punches I got did not hurt. I feel as good as when I entered the ring. The first round convinced me that victory was mine. I was only playing with him after the fourth round. I was fighting with my head. Moir seemed to use only his fists. The fifth round was the liveliest. My tactics seemed to puzzle Moir from the start. I have had worse fights: had to take more gruel."

Tommy Burns in Ring

'Met a Better Man'—Moir.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Billy Neil, Burns' manager, said after the battle:

"Moir was too slow for Tommy Burns. After the first round I knew the Gunner was entirely out-classed. Tommy's foot work was Moir's undoing. The Gunner lost his temper very early in the game but he took his grueling well. He is game if nothing else."

Moir gave out the following simple statement:

"Burns proved the better man so I had to take my medicine."

The Gunner's manager had this excuse:

"Burns is the fastest, quickest big man on his feet I have ever seen."

Special by Hearst Leased Wire Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Speaker Cannon, lumbering down Pennsylvania avenue today, leaving a trail of fragrant tobacco smoke in his wake, encountered Representative James S. Sherman of New York.

"Morning, Uncle Joe," said Sherman. "I congratulate you. Now that Roosevelt is out of it, nothing can prevent your being nominated for president."

"Jim," said the Speaker, "I am reminded of old Bill Devine out in my district. Devine was on his way home from a political rally and his skin fairly oozed with alcohol. Passing through a field he kicked up a rattlesnake which emitted a warning buzz. Bill drew himself up with dignified solemnity, eyed the reptile with lofty contempt and said: 'Strike, damn ye; yeeu will never find me better prepared.'"

Nelson Best on Superior Aggressiveness.

W. W. NAUGHTON and H. M. Walker, for the "Examiner," attended the fight between Battling Nelson and Jimmy Britt last night.
Each man judged the fight as he saw it and wrote his account of it without the least idea of what the other man was writing. Mr. Naughton thinks that Britt had the best of it on points, while Mr. Walker believes that Nelson won the fight because of his greater aggressiveness. The two opinions are given after the closest study of the situation. The crowd was about evenly divided between the two.

BATTLING' JOHNSON IN NEED OF ALL HIS STEAM TO PUT IT OVER JIM FLYNN.

BOTH MEN AGGRESSIVE IN THEIR RING WORK.

BY H. M. WALKER.

A FIGHTER who will fight is getting to be quite a novelty in these days of "stall and get the money." This fact partly explains the sudden rise to popularity of one "Battling" Johnson, the big, awkward, but willing foreigner who is scheduled to fight ten rounds with big Jim Flynn of go-as-you-please fame.

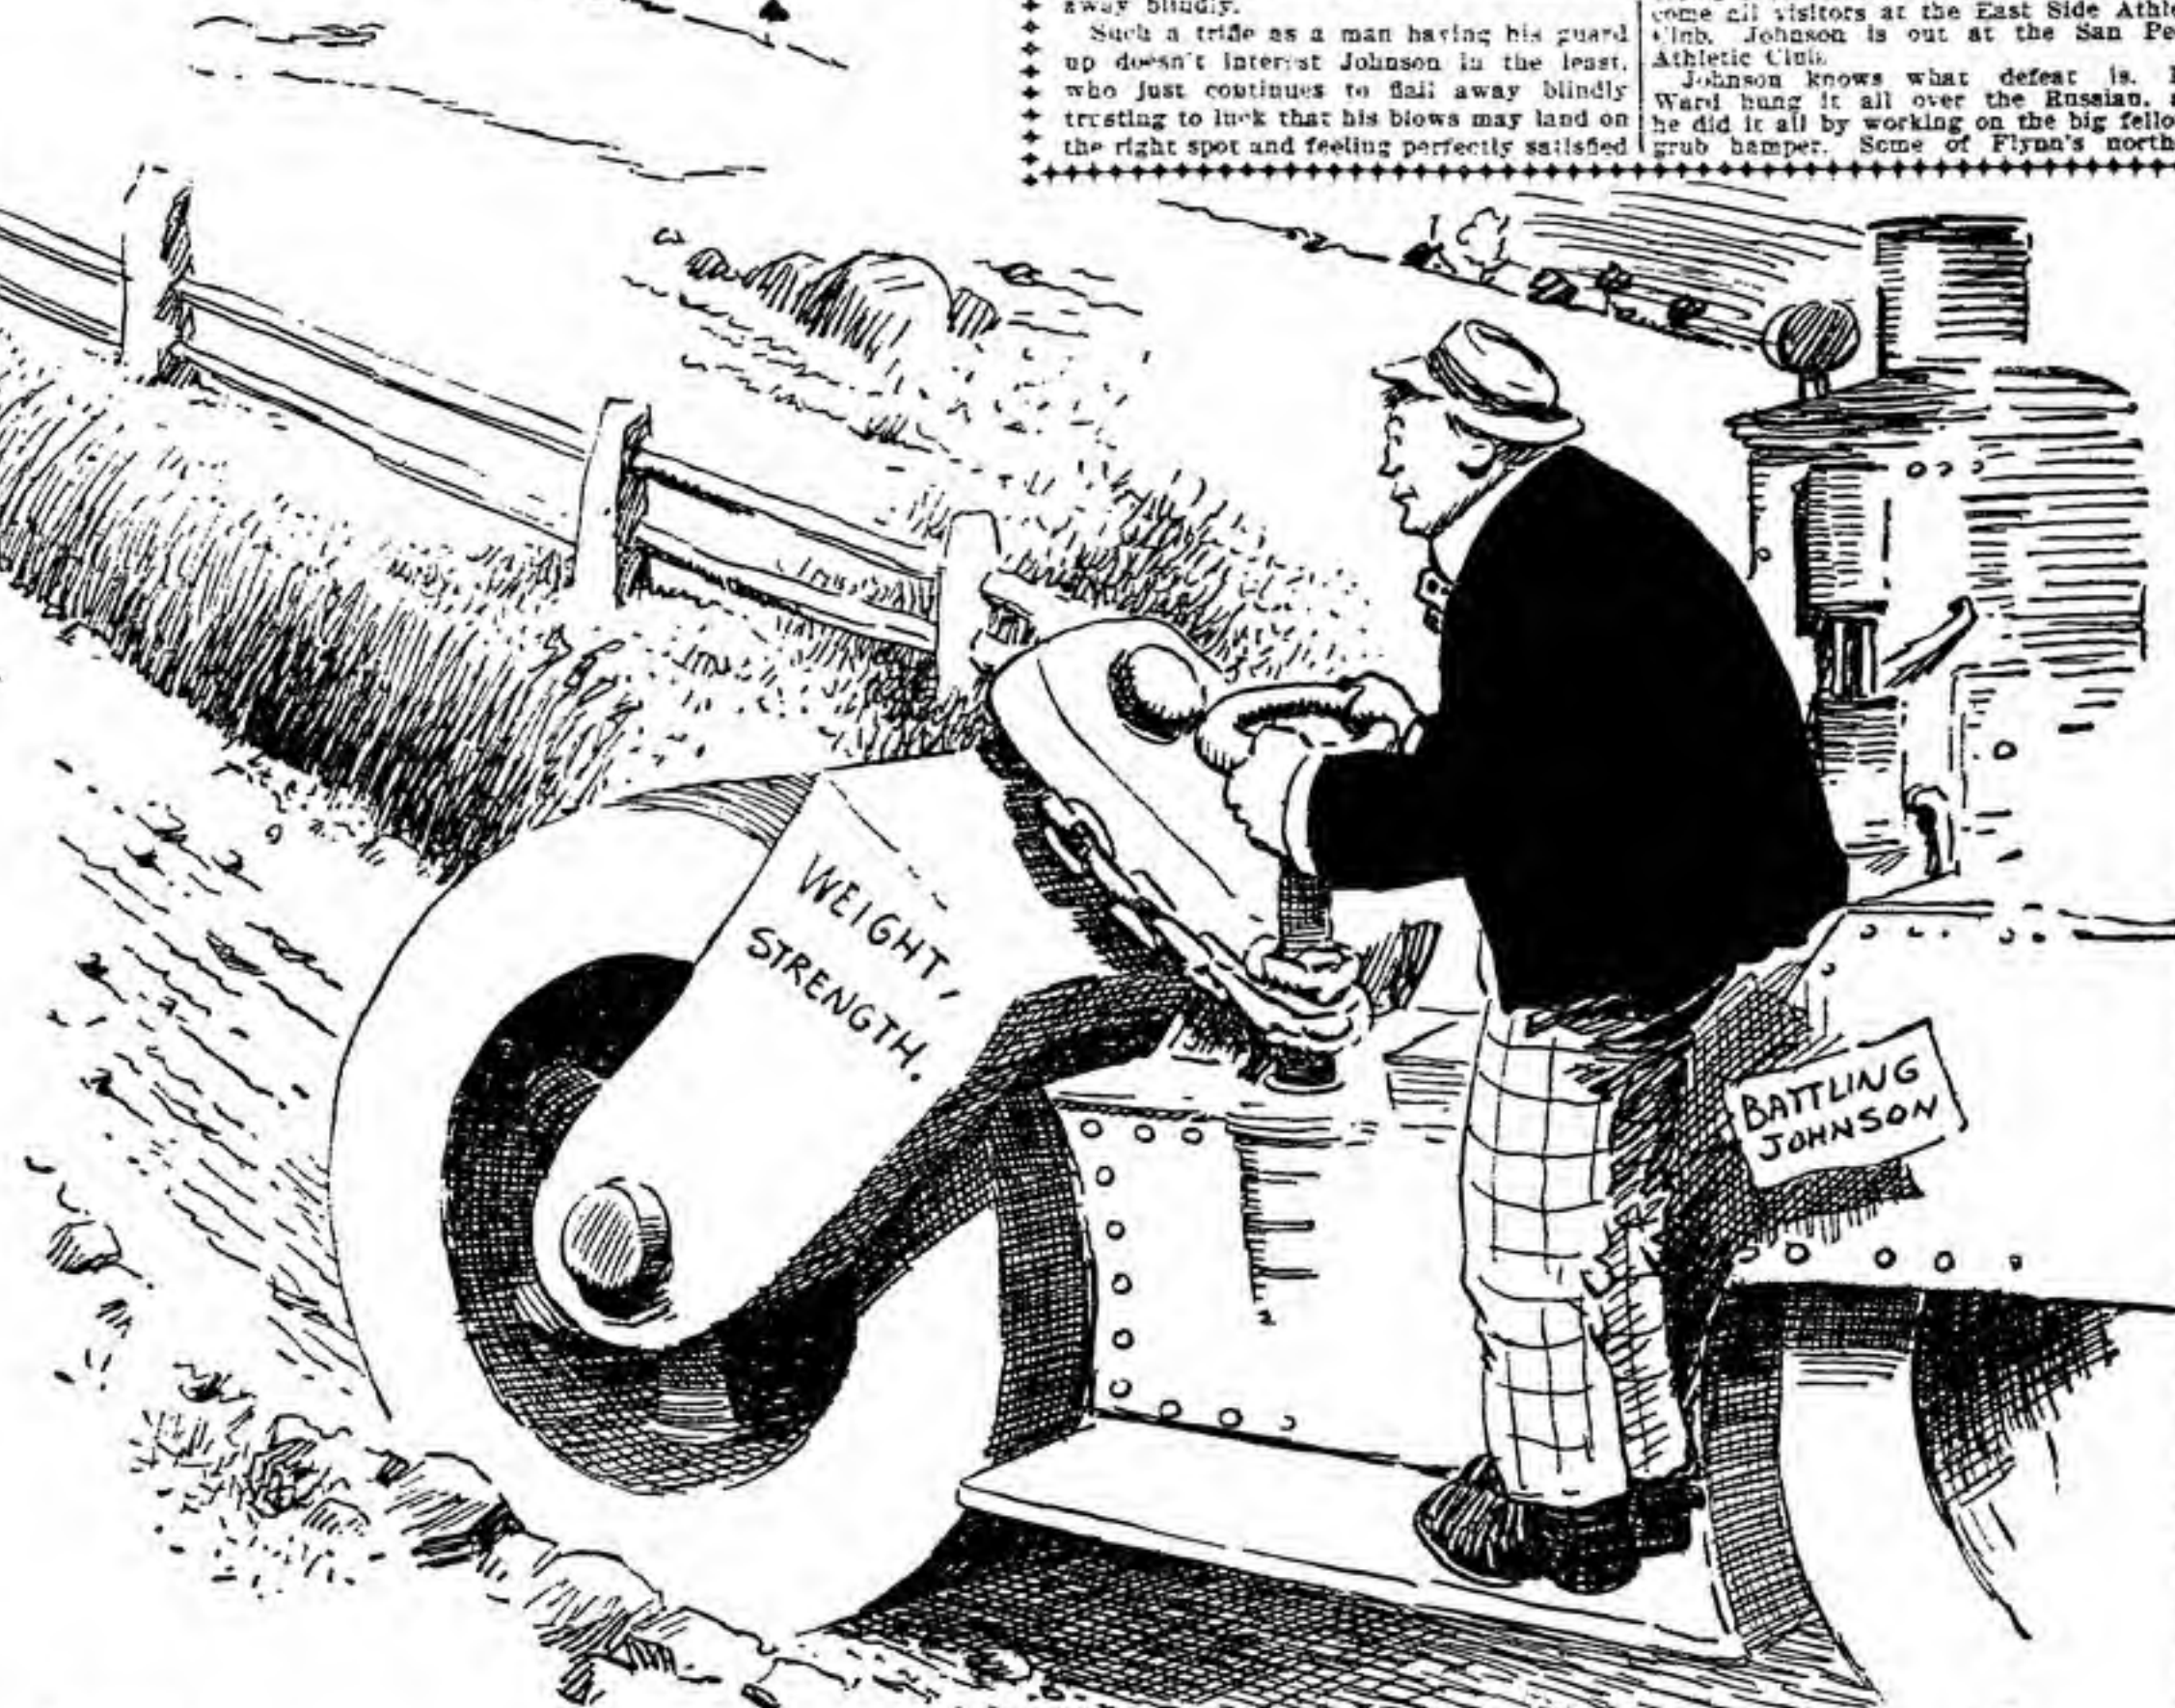

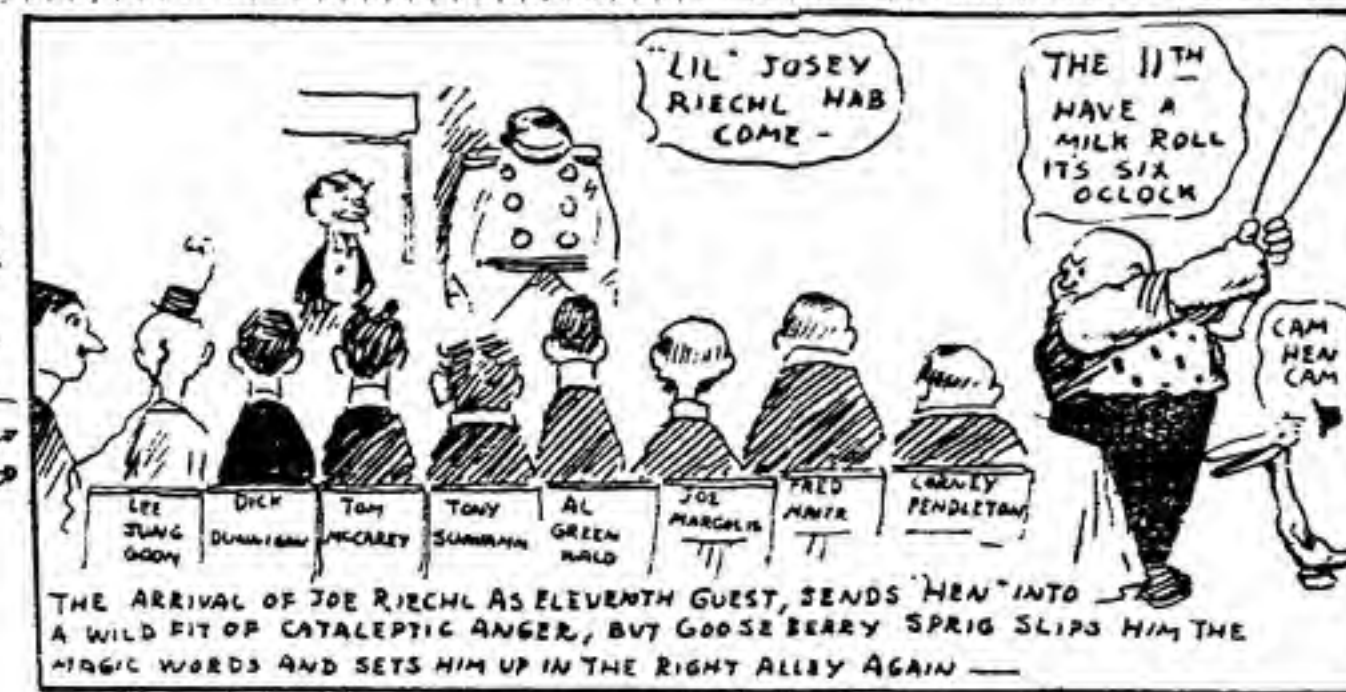

When the bell turns the aforesaid Johnson loose in the ring the Russian giant knows nothing but fight. He rushes at his opponent as though he was afraid the latter was going to get away, and then hammers away blindly.

Such a trifle as a man having his guard up doesn't interest Johnson in the least, who just continues to flail away blindly trusting to luck that his blows may land on the right spot and feeling perfectly satisfied the fight between Flynn and Johnson. A great many of the knowing ones hold that Flynn will soon beat down and tame the fiery Johnson. On the other hand, there are many fans in the "wise brigade" who are able to advance many reasonable arguments to show that this young giant will not only whip Flynn, but will beat many others who are to come after the Fighting Fireman.

The best part of this delightful uncertainty is that we will know all about it in a few hours. Flynn and Johnson will put in their last day of real work today, and as is usual in this fight loving community the camps of both men will be crowded to the door sills. Flynn will welcome all visitors at the East Side Athletic Club. Johnson is out at the San Pedro Athletic Club.

Johnson knows what defeat is. Bob Ward hung it all over the Russian, and he did it all by working on the big fellow's grub hamper. Some of Flynn's northern Daring Plan Unfolded.

"This year when it came time to consider what we should do it was Thompson again who suggested the circus. Unknown to me he had just arrived from London where he learned just what the Sells-Florio show has taken to here last year in its three days' stay. He proposed that we buy the Sells-Florio Circus, which at that time included not only a Sells-Florio circus, but a completely-fledged show with all the trimmings. I told him that I would have to think about it first and when he asked me to make the proposition the suggestion that we give $100,000 to some worthy charity we thought of. But Thompson had divorced himself from his duties."

"But he showed us how it was possible to get away with such a thing," said Mr. Thompson. "He got him started on things. This was about a month or so before then he had never stopped a minute. As a result of his work we own the Sells-Florio Circus and have secured the rights to it. We can put on as big a act or take it off as we see fit. We will make use of all our money to make the best show of whatever we don't like. So far as I know it is the only time that a private organization ever procured a show of this size or cost."

The way Thompson did it figured upon

Wealth of Attractions.

Those who saw Saturday night's performance at Santa Monica are ready to attest that never was a show more deserving of the title "Circus Heartful." There is no thrillier this year, on "leap of death," on thousand-dollar-a-week automobile loop the loops, or the elephants are trapped with javels and paid that are positively gorgeous. There is a troupe of Russian acrobats, and the elephants are trained to do anything that was ever seen in this country before. There are truly beautiful horses and riders, and it is all so well planned that it is altogether a circus beautiful—almost none the less a real circus for that.

The show will leave Santa Monica this morning, and will arrive in Los Angeles on Wednesday. With Senorita Arabella Copporio, in a huge blue diamond costume and a pendant wing of diamonds; Sammie, the beautiful American girl, whom you can see work other days as Noble Andrew J. Cobb; her manager, her entrance toward the show; and the famous "The Great White Elephant" as Arabian stallion, during all the stunts of a real professional "principal" rider, one would have hard work in believing the bug-rani even today ride a horse under the saddle." But after three weeks' training he can do handstands on a horse's neck and turn all sorts of flip-flops on a horse's back. He would make an old-timer turn green with envy.

thetically the 3,000 men, railroad managers and other representatives of the Los Angeles and Southern California area, and following closely in the wake of the power-for-one and only—the king of the circus, the elephant. The elephant, perennially crashing, headlong, side-stepping forward, in fact, approaching what may be the most serious of the disasters in every conceivable fable catastrophe, is in the lead. Behind him, in the parade run way and at the elephants and camels behind it is the fact that more than one elephant has died, and a camel has been run over on the animals. But, incidentally, mostly by their own acts, make the complete circle of the circus, and the circus is the circus.

The music in this combination amateur-professional circus is of distinctly higher quality than that of the general circus. Besides the troupe of Russian dancers, the big circus band, the young women who play trumpet fanfare on trumpets which all the circus band plays, and the "groups and bat rail musical instruments at all, and the clown band, are all much better than similar features of other circuses.

At the very start of the performance, the elephant and a camel, and a horse, and a peacock, make their initial bow to the audience—there is a musical number which goes far toward assuring the crowd an unusually high order of entertainment during the rest of the program. A young woman, whose name does not appear on the program, stands on a pedestal in front of the band and at one end of the big tent and sings—actually sings—loud enough to

A special car bearing three score of brigades from the Temple in San Francisco reached Los Angeles yesterday. They will set pointers for their circus which will be held the end of this month in San Francisco in conjunction with the Sella-Piero show.

Besides this morning's big parade there will be two other parades on Wednesday and Saturday mornings. Today's mile-long procession, however, will be the biggest in point of the number of Shrivers who will participate and it is thought the line of march will be thronged by all who want a break away from business long enough to get on the scene.

THE MODERN JAMES AND HIS EPISTLE TO THE THESPIANS.

AMONG the many immoralities for which civilization is responsible, that of an intellect which stimulates mankind to reach after what does not exist is one of the most deplorable. It offends the respectable, genteel sense almost as much as a corsair of commerce who does not establish a university, or teach in a Sunday school. The agile individual who does physical culture stunts in public thoroughfares, with a toothpick, you may see honored at public functions; but the man who tries to foist beautiful ideas on us is nothing less than a crank, undesirable in polite assemblages, and can be dismissed with the epithet of being a socialist!

Like the poets who never improve their minds by reading the stock reports, and all the respectable results of the twentieth century culture, the victims of this habit of reaching into faithless depths of beauty are unconscious of their guilt and are fatuously happy in their belief that they are of benefit to a world that is enjoyably suffering ethical phobia, and is happy with strangulation of its arterial system by clogging clots of thoughts that dead men have thought in dead centuries.

A most charming, utterly delightful example is Mr. Charles James, with whom I recently had some experience as a reporter, and from whom I have had some absurdly interesting letters since he went to San Francisco. It was my privilege to write something of Mr. James' mission—that of crusading at respectable and immortal conventions in the theatrical world. His doctrines as then exploited have attracted attention and requests for further enlightenment as to what he proposed to do in his tilt against the sails of the windmills of common-sense and human nature.

In the first place I must confess that I do not know who Mr. Charles James is, further than that he is, and that he has a dreadfully beautiful capacity for poetry, a firm belief in the general possession of soulfulness, and an idea that most people have an ambition far above that of eating, drinking, having their eyes and ears tickled, and a desire to keep a roof over their heads. Such men, if they escape a lunacy commission in their early years, sometimes become prophets and martyrs, and in later centuries intellectual women form clubs called after their name.

It is very possible that along about the year 2000 there will be a James club here, and that a certain Stevens will live in history as the blasphemer of 1908 who gave the idea that Mr. James was a Don Quixote.

I found him one, and as I love no man more than a Quixote, you can judge what charm there is about the Jamesian philosophy of the theater.

It is not much that Mr. James asks of actors for his stage cult.

"I want men and women of didactic capacity, artistic intellects and devoted souls," he asserts.

So you can see at once what an easy task he has in developing a theater.

Harry Wyatt, John Blackwood, Ollie Morosco, Papa Fischer, Edgar Temple, Clarence Drown, if you will send any of them an inquiry, inclosing a stamped envelope for a reply, will let you know by return mail just how many actors and actresses they have known, or even heard of, who are classified in the object of Mr. James' quest.

I knew of one such, many, many years ago, and he used to play with a protecting wire screen in front of the stage.

What does Mr. James hope to accomplish, you begin to ask?

The establishment of a theater in New York, and eventually one in every city of the land, where the actors will work as zealots work, as students sacrifice themselves, for the sake of the beauty, which he believes is akin to divinity, that is latent in theatrical undertakings.

Cannot you hear the guffaws that come from the plate glass windows of the sybaritic offices of those entrepreneurs of art—Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger. They know just as well as we all do, that Mr. James' fate is just as certain as that of the lambkin wandering into Wall street, and his ambition just as futile as Charles Gates' belief that he could cope with the unsophisticated mining bashibazouks of Death Valley.

It is true that Mr. James has the practical backing of the Brooklyn Institute, a body of noble people who are trying with occasional success to dream the world into better things.

And he has the complete faith of one with whom mere belief is obliterated by the knowledge that he is right.

"My players must be able to be in the world, and still not of it, which is the true test of goodness," continued this apostle in his epistle to the Thespians.

"My theater will be a temple, where the workers will perform their duties with the devotion and faith of priests. They will be required to live on just enough to maintain themselves, say $1 per day (Note that, Bill Desmond, Lew Stone, Harry von Meter and John Drew; it is for the tailors and haberdashers to laugh, is it?).

CHAS. JAMES WHO WANTS TO MAKE THE THEATER A TEMPLE AND EVERY ACTOR AN APOSTLE OF THE CAUSE

"I will ignore the material interests (Hey there, Tige, Fido, Rover, all you watch dogs of the box office, sic him!) and will substitute for those the moral purposes of developing beauty where there is crudeness, and devotion where there is self-seeking."

Is it not funny? Like all thoroughly serious matters and objects of great importance, Mr. James' theories are certainly of the highest absurdity and utterly ridiculous.

That dollar a day salary is no obstacle at all to Mr. James. Any man can live well on that sum; Mr. James knows this for he has tried, and has often lived on much less, and maintained muscles and sinews that make him today a formidable athlete, with a brain that is capable of understanding anything and everything save the unsoulfulness of actors.

He expects actors to be victimized as students at a university, who are glad to live on mush and salaries for the sake of learning; or the Methodist parson who preaches, has a ready charity for every wanderer, is true, hundreds of learned college professors who can write theses in a few months about duplicate their lettering, and who are paid $450, $500, and in exceptional instances perhaps $1200 a year.

But they live for love of their work and for love of service to the work

SCENES SHOWING WHY
DICK WARNER MAY NOT HAVE BEEN LANDED ON

WARNER MYSTERY DEEPENS WITH DENIALS.

'Man Never Lived That Escaped
Unmarked After Hitting
Adam Dixon.'

SULTRY TALK IS ADMITTED.

Clews That Led to Schwamm
Merely Make Strange Case
More Baffling.

TO the momentous question, "Who hit Dick Warner?" that man makes the emphatic reply that no one laid violent hands upon him in anger.

That there was heated argument in the Democratic caucus at the Jonathan Club Wednesday night Mr. Warner does not deny. That the talk at times was hot enough to melt ice cream no one disputes. But that anyone should hit Dick Warner—why, that is absurd, if there are no marks of conflict upon those who took part in the love feast that broke up in a row.

The man never lived that hit Dick Warner upon whom Adam Dixon Warner did not leave his mark. That is what Mr. Warner says himself, and he ought to know.

Chairman Anthony Schwamm of the Democratic County Central Committee refused yesterday to add anything to his statement of Thursday night. He repeated that he never said anyone hit Dick Warner, but he insisted that Mr. Warner did not eat his ice cream.

"But, Mr. Schwamm, it is claimed that you are the man that hit Dick Warner—how about it?" he was asked.

"No use asking me anything about it; I refuse to say anything," was the impatient reply. "Let the thing drop. Too much has been said already, and a further discussion will do no one any good. Yes, I was at the caucus, as I said, but I did not say I saw anyone hit Dick Warner. Let the matter drop."

"But, Mr. Schwamm, did you shove Dick Warner, or did you make any threatening or hostile demonstration?"

'Drop It,' Says Schwamm.

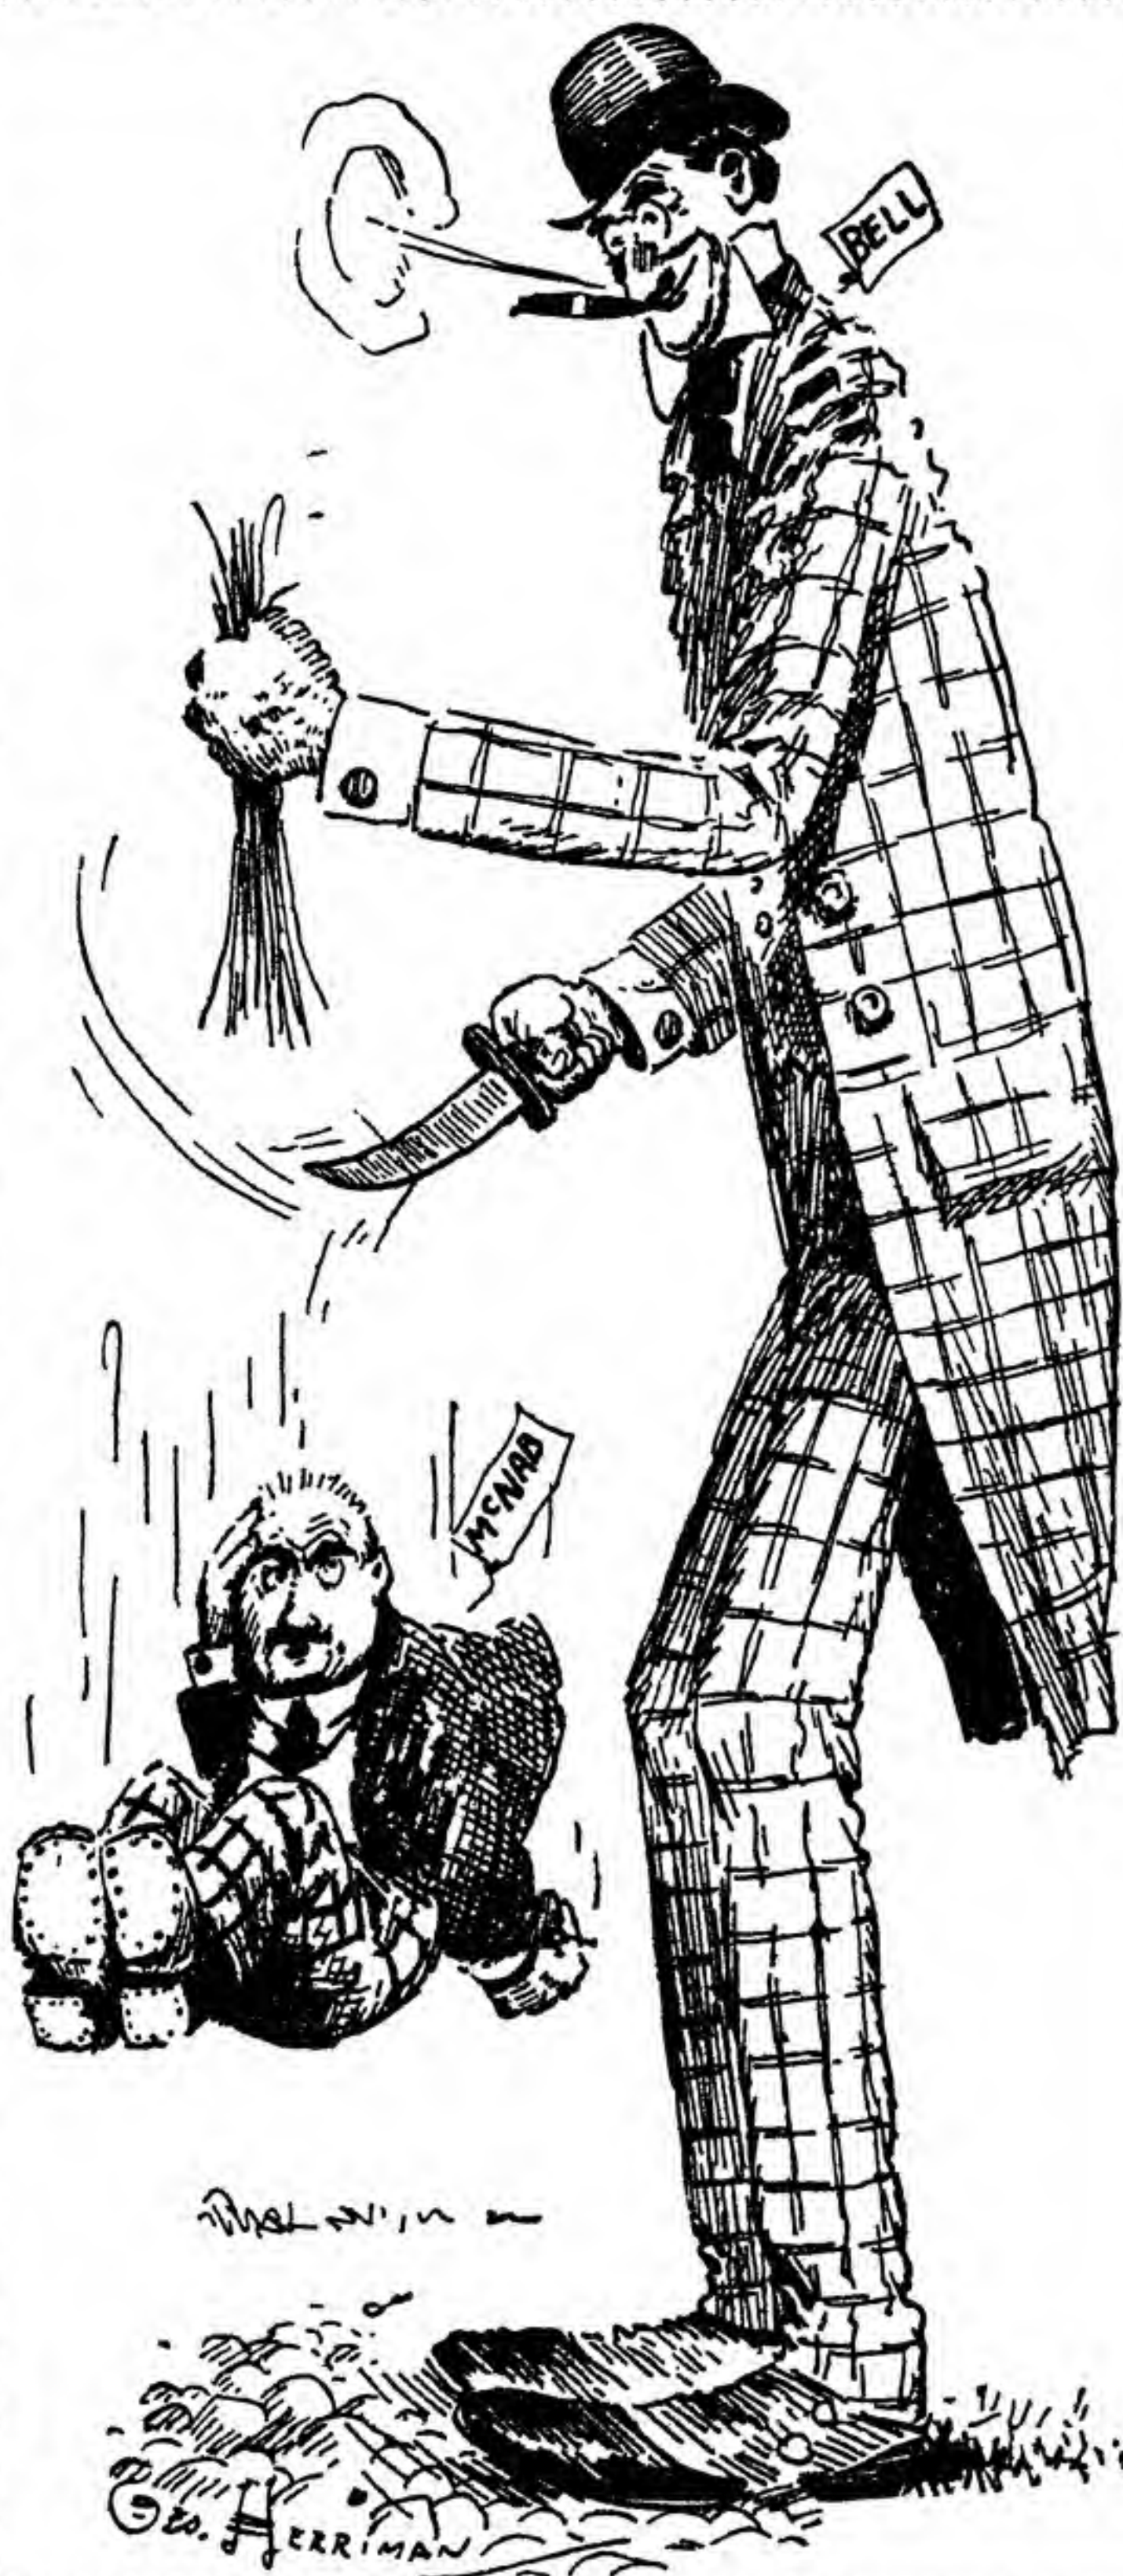

"Nothing more to say, I told you. Let the matter drop," and to emphasize the fact that he meant what he said Mr. Schwamm turned on his heel and walked away.

HELICOPTER AIRSHIP'S WINGS FAIL TO LIFT IT.

HAMMONDSPORT, N. Y., May 21.
—For three hours this afternoon efforts were made to induce the helicopter flying machine, invented by J. Newton Williams, to fly. Mr. Williams is the high-jump champion at Yale, but the flying machine refused to live up to the family record. At one time the overhead wings raised one-half of the machine from the ground, but the part in which a weight represented the operator refused to budge. The trouble was laid upon the engine, which was said not to be working properly. The engine will be overhauled and another trial of the machine made tomorrow. All the aeronauts in Hammondsport gathered at the test of the helicopter, so no further test was made of the aeroplane White Wings. This machine will also be tried out again tomorrow.

The Bad Genii and the Fisherman

Once upon a time an Arabian fisherman, while strolling along the seashore, came upon a cave which had been dashed ashore. Curiosity overcoming him, he removed the lid, whereupon, much to his astonishment and dismay, a cloud of smoke issued forth, evolving into a fierce, threatening genie.—Arabian Nights Entertainment.

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE, MR. DALTON

BY HERRIMAN

"Kid" Dalton, our streamers little Italian citizen, who has been bucking the pugilistic with much festive color in this locality for the past few years, has now come out of the scrap heap, taken a firm stand on the dead line of classism, and has let out one loud, clear call for "recognition."

The recognition interim first took up its abode in Dalton's auditory some two years ago. It has since propagated to disquieting proportions. Its multiplicity has subjected the poor little "Kid" to a series of wild hallucinations, first breaking out in a vigilant rash of ambition, then into a fever of aristocratic longing for a "manager with money," and lastly in a barbaric flight of fancy he left our side to seek the stranger and more fantastic lanes of Higher Pugilism.

News of the little Roman pilgrim filtered its way to the Southland, of his successes and reverses, of his hits and misses, and slings of his violent efforts to rise, rise, rise.

Then it was that "recognition" took a fall out with the fans of our town; if Kid Dalton would only show up at the old meeting place, he could have all the "recognition" he wanted.

"Fighting" Dick Hyland was the only available medium, that is, a medium of class, hanging around wherewith a recognition-ridden person could get honorable satisfaction.

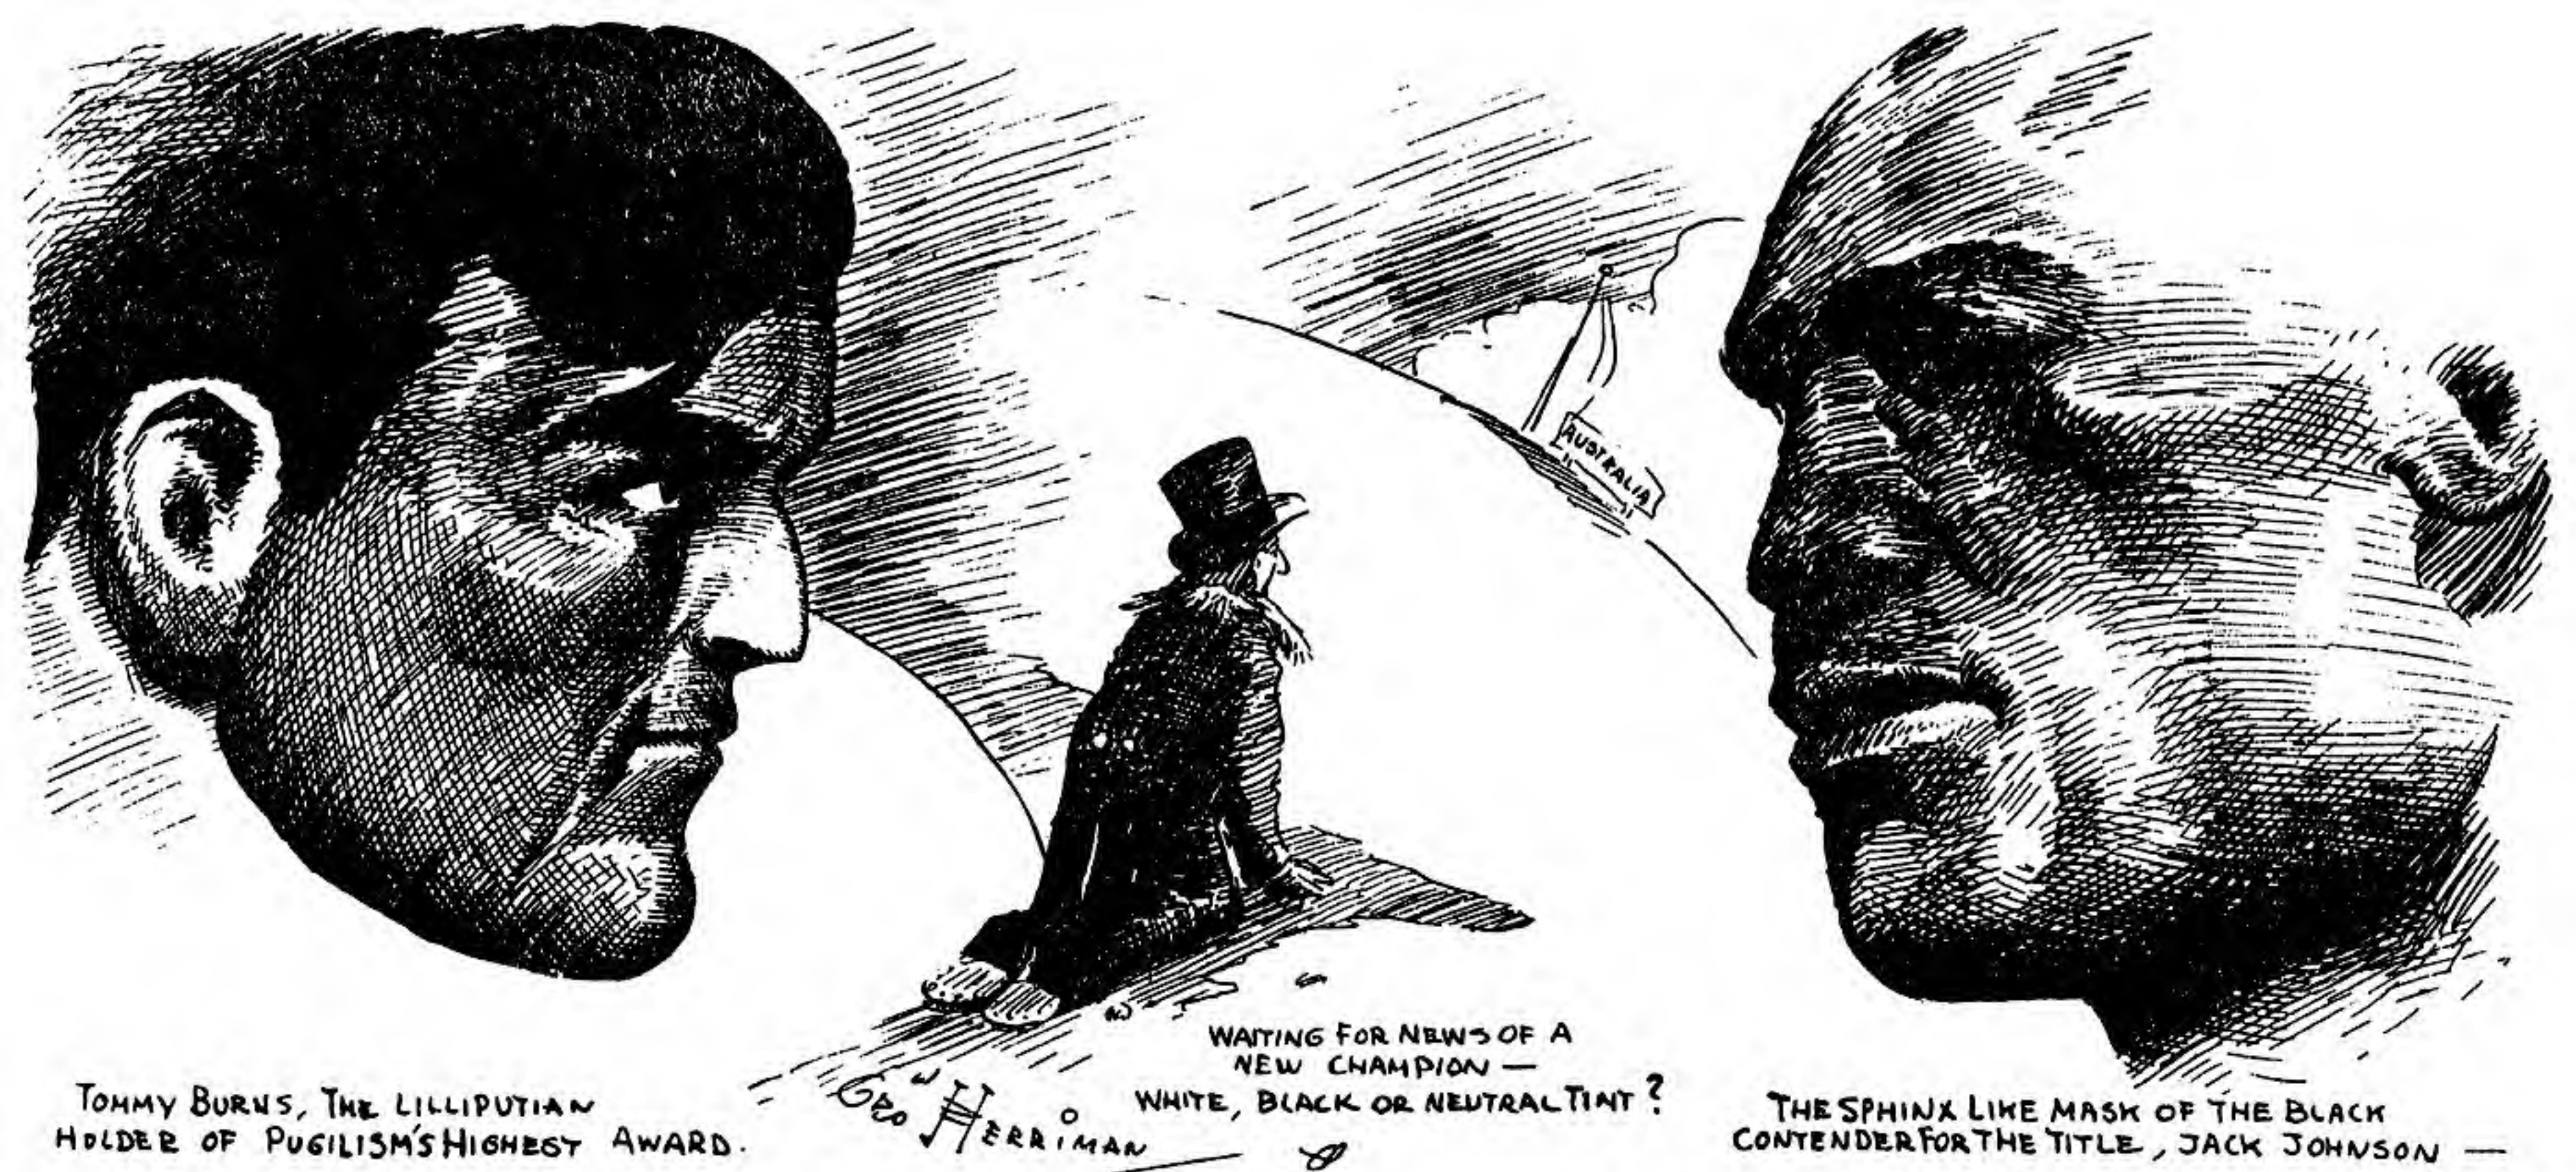

Tonight the world will either see a young man loaded to the gunwales with "recognition," or, oh well, there is a demand for strong young men who care to tackle legitimate work.

"Recognition," oh truly, a word to juggle with.

Salvador Pimento, the well known merchant of goobers, has this to say: "High, da 'Keet,' he betta getta da peetch take, after da back a da Hy getta farosh west him. Poof for recognoesh, heesa besta fren wouda recognoesh hem, hah!"

ACUTE MARATHONITIS

TOMMY BURNS, THE LILLIPUTIAN
HOLDER OF PUGILISM'S HIGHEST AWARD.

BY HERRIMAN

On the reverse side of our planet two peculiarly constructed anatomies will soon clash, the award being the laurels of pugilistic supremacy.

A careful study of their faces may reveal much of interest.

Burns' soft face, finely modeled nose, chin, a chin of such magnitude, a chin to compel one to halt in admiration, to fry and compute the determination it denotes. Were Tommy Burns' only asset his chin, it would be a fit "open sesame" to any dizzy heights of fame he could aspire to.

A mask, hewn from black marble by a master sculptor of heroic ideals is Jack Johnson.

Well could he who carved the Sphinx see the living perpetuation of his immortal giant of mute stone in the rugged face of this mastodontic African. There are no finer intricacies in that face, no finicky tickling in its chiselling, it is the ideal of a gone age, when the world was rough.

As for Johnson's courage, some will tell you that with all that rugged exterior, beats a heart within that will liquefy at fright of pain. Whether or no we'll know before the death of the year.

"FREDDIE WELSH, WON'T YOU PLE-E-E-EASE COME 'OME"

A CALL FROM HOME.

BY HERRIMAN

Good old Dame Britainia has seen so many of her children pack up and trek for parts unknown that she hardly pays any attention to their comings and goings; she hears of their prowess and conquests and smiles proudly; they go, she speeds their parting; they come back, she gives them motherly welcome.

They have banded everlasting civilization into the hides of unsuspecting natives in distant lands where natives dwell; they have mastered the waters from the polar star to the southern cross; they called for their "arf an arf" in many lands, in as many tongues, and Mrs. Britainia has gloated over their fortunes, and their play, from every dot on the terrestrial horizon.

However, from the myriads of her offspring who have won fame abroad she to-day longs for the return of one of her little sons who has been too long away from home and now softly, pleadingly, earnestly she calls him back to her.

A mild-mannered, unassuming little gentleman of the prize ring, he came from the quiet hamlet of Ponty Pridd to play in Uncle Sam's big back yard.

He won our friendship by his gentleness, and won as readily the laurels from the brows of our young champions from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He has left the name of Ponty Pridd indelibly stamped on our landscape. We have pitted our best against him and he has left them striped of their titles. Then we awoke to find him an invader worthy of our steel and we stand ready to hand him all the credit that is coming to him for it.

He can share our bowl of suds to blow bubbles with and pick plums from our pudding if he wishes and get "divvy" from our apple and use the old swimming hole—that's how welcome he is.

But Britainia calls him home. He has played long enough she thinks. "Freddie," she calls. "Freddie Welsh, won't you ple-e-e-ease come 'ome?"

In masse, they have emerged from their coops and let out a loud, patriotic howl about rescuing the "title of titles" from the possession of the black man.

Here they stand, a lovely mess of pugilistic derelicts preening their frayed plumes in patriotic fervor, making great show of being latter day Casabiancas, St. Georges, and gentlemen Joan of Arcs.

Here Jack Johnson has been making extensive peregrinations over the world, wasting away for the want of a fight. All the while the surface of the sea of swat lay bland, placid and unrippled. Now the Galvestonian comes back with the prime prize, and the tombs resound with challenges from every pugilistic mummy since the deluge.

The country reverberates with the brave cry of "the title must come back to the Caucasian." Truly a fine excuse for these

St. Georges of the prize ring to work upon the public. They are ready to face the dusky dragon in his den and blushing bring back the title.

Behold! the heroes. "St. Lemo" Jack O'Brien, Marvin Hart, Mike Shreck, "Tawm" Sharkey, Corbett; that rare old Dodo, Bob Fitzsimmons, and oh, spare us, John "Twin" Sullivan. They clang their tin armor and puff their age worn breasts and acclaim themselves Davids ready to crack the dome of somber hued heavyweight Goliath to bring back our fair title to its home.

Now that we have heard from those whom we long thought defunct, let us give ear to Kid Canembert, Battling Brie, Terrible Roquefort, Spike Limburger or some other good heavyweight fromage.

The title will abide awhile with Johnson, unless the one man, James Jeffries, decides to climb over the ropes.

In the meanwhile call in Doctor Osler and let him get busy in the heavyweight division.

Miss Jessie Anthony

WHAT PRESIDENT-ELECT TAFT THINKS

I think that the secret of most domestic infelicity is that young women think that unless they are married their lives are not a success. As a matter of fact, I think the reverse is exactly true. Look into your own lives and your families'. Take some aunt of yours who never married. What a sweet, self-sacrificing, disinterested and lovely character she has grown to be, 70 and 80 years old, and think what beneficence shall spread over all the family circle in which she lives, and then tell me she would have been better off if she had been married! I don't believe it!—W. H. Taft, in speech before Normal School girls at Athens, Ga., January 16, 1909.

WHAT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT THINKS

Unless the average woman is a good wife and good mother; unless she bears a sufficient number of children, so that the race shall increase and not decrease; unless she brings up these children sound in mind and body—unless this is true of the average woman, no brilliancy of genius, no material prosperity, no triumphs of science and industry, will avail to save the race from ruin and death.—President Roosevelt, in speech before the National Congress of Mothers in Washington on March 15, 1908.

OLDEST FEUD IN CITY GETS INTO COURT; ONE MAN FINED

DIAGRAM, SHOWING MCCLURE IN SULPHURIC ACTION, AS DESCRIBED BY MR. & MRS. RADFORD AND MISS ROBINSON.

The oldest neighborhood feud in Los Angeles—age authenticated—was decided yesterday on the broad proposition that it is possible to look through the picket fence of Charles McClure of 2640 Ganahl street.

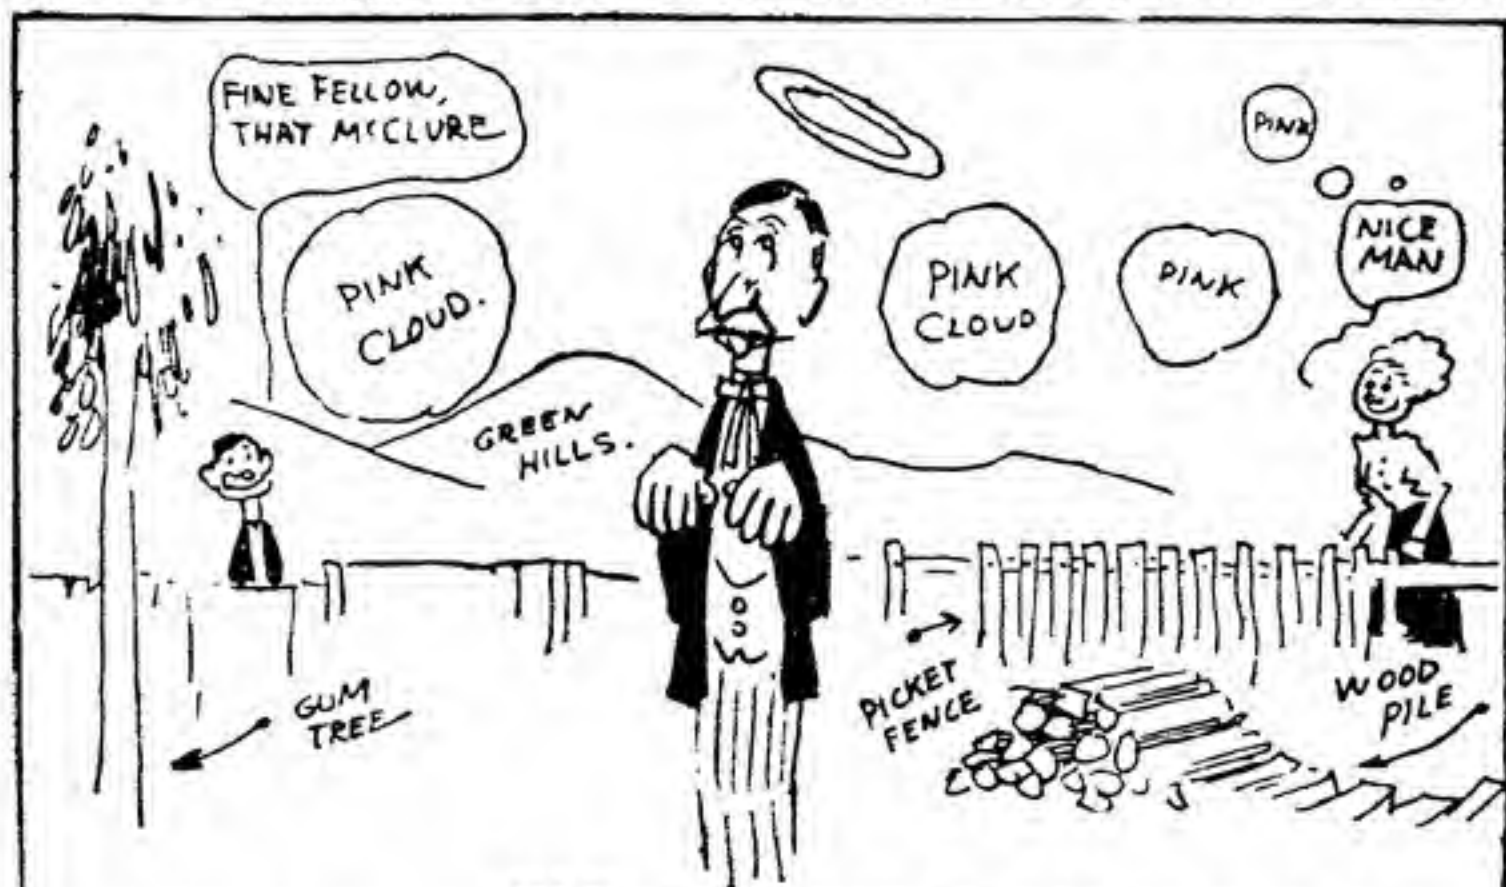

Mr. McClure defended himself against the charge of disturbing the peace of his next neighbor but one R. W. Radford, on the ground that he couldn't see through the fence. But places lives a Miss Emma J. Robinson. She was also a witness.

Neighbor Radford saw McClure in the former's back yard, through the picket fence. Immediately the language objected to began to stream through the interstices. Radford repeated.

Miss Robinson corroborated. She said "Mr. McClure called me a bad name. He has done this lots of times. When I have had company he has hollered me out." Mrs. Radford was more enthusiastic over relating the shortcomings of Neighbor McClure than the others.

Neighbor McClure denied. He couldn't

MCCLURE, AS HE OUTLINED HIMSELF HE MADE IT SO GOOD, THAT HIS HONOR WAS MOVED TO FINE HIM $15.

the prosecution assumed that there were spaces between the pickets, or they would not be pickets; ergo (triumphantly) the defense had as many holes in it as the fence. McClure was therefore found guilty and fined $15.

There assembled for the trial relatives and partisans of both Radford, an electrician, and McClure, a transfer man. Neighbor Radford said that Neighbor McClure had called him names, the time being Sunday morning, January 17. It appears that between McClure's and Radford's look through the fence, he said, hence Radford could not have seen him currying the horse, as alleged. There were also a pile of wood and a chicken house up against the fence, so, again, the perception indicated was impossible, he testified.

Mrs. McClure corroborated. She described the fence and the spaces kept diminishing. It was becoming almost impossible for a fly to see a mountain through the pickets. Neighbor Hensig further corroborated. At the conclusion there was the testimony of three for the prosecution against three for the defense. Police Judge Frederickson found McClure guilty and intimated that the fine of $15 might have been used to build a solid board fence.

MAIL BOX MOVED; PROTEST EMPHATIC

Neighborhood Aroused and Appeal to Authorities in Washington in Prospect

"On to Washington!"

Residents of the neighborhood of Vermont avenue and Twenty-seventh street have been thrown into a state of irritable excitement by the discovery that the mail box which formerly decorated the southwest corner at that street intersection, the center of population, has been moved to Twenty-eighth street, a howling wilderness—comparatively.

"On to Washington!"

As a result of the sudden moving of the Government property and the local convenience, a near mass meeting has been held. Over the back fences the neighbors have talked and discussed the matter pro and con. The box must return.

In its former position the little green mail box occupied the strategic center of that neighborhood. It was directly opposite to the big Harper school. It stood in a line with the barber shop, the shops of the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker and other places of mercantile interest. Also it was convenient for the school children.

The fond mothers who had written letters the night before, dropped their letters into the hands of their offspring with the order to "mail it as you go to school." The mailing was done promptly and obediently. Now, however, the order has changed to, "Skip up to the next corner and drop the letter in, dearie." That procedure now accounts for many tardy reports and offers beautiful grounds for excuses to be late at school. Hence—

"On to Washington!"

It has been decided by the residents of the neighborhood that an effort will be made to have Postmaster Flint bring the box back to its former corner. As a convenience to the mailing public, the old position, they declare, was much superior to the present one. The question of a permanent stand for the box will be brought before Mr. Flint shortly. If that fails, and the box does not come back—

"On to Washington!"

Mr. Flint yesterday looked the matter up and declared that the mail box, no matter where it stood, had been used as a convenience for the distributing postman.

"Many times," said the Postmaster, "the letter carrier has a very heavy load—of mail to carry, and he thought of getting a box in which to deposit half the load while he distributed the remainder. This was done, and it has been the custom of the postman to leave half or a portion of his letters in the box. Then he distributes the remainder, comes back and collects the rest and thus saves himself much trouble. Then he moved the box to the next corner because it was more convenient for him."

The Vermont avenue residents, however, cannot see the thing in that light. Their viewpoint is, "It was here and all was well. It is not here now and all is woe! Bring it back to us or

"On to Washington!"

BANDIT DUPES, HOLDS UP AND ROBS CONSTABLE

Wouldn't It Make You Mad, If You Had Carefully Planned to Capture a Bold, Bad Desperado, and This Happened?

"I'm Bad Man," He Tells Deputy Trying Hours to Trap Him; Then Whips Out Gun

Just as William Villeger, a deputy constable living at 268 North Fremont avenue, started to draw his revolver in an effort to capture a footpad early yesterday morning, the bandit whippel out his own revolver, held up the deputy constable and robbed him of $22. Piqued when his carefully arranged plans of capture went awry, Villeger pursued the bandit, and stumbled over the curbstone, sustaining a severely lacerated knee. He then reported the robbery to the police.

Villeger, who is a night watchman employed on West Temple street, met the highwayman early Saturday night. After conversing with the man for several hours the two walked toward the corner of Los Angeles and Winston streets. It was there that Villeger expected to cover the bandit with his revolver and effect a capture.

When the highwayman had finished telling Villeger how he had committed a number of hold-ups he drew his revolver. "Throw up your hands," he commanded. The footpad then secured Villeger's watch and cash, but did not take his revolver.

"Stand in this position, do not face about, until I have turned the corner," was the parting statement made by the highwayman. When Villeger turned a few minutes later the footpad had vanished. It was then that he drew his revolver and made an attempt at pursuit. Detectives are investigating the robbery.

PHYSICIANS SPLIT OVER "THO-RAD-X"

"Secret of Long Life," Say
Some; "All Foolishness," Declare Others

Concerning the possibility of prolonging human life by the use of tho-rad-x, the substitute for radium discovered by two Chicago physicians, there was much difference of opinion yesterday among Los Angeles doctors.

Some hailed the discovery as a boon to mankind which would add many years to the average human life, while others pooh-poohed the idea.

Dr. E. Stillman Bailey, one of the discoverers of the substitute for radium, is well known among the physicians in Los Angeles because of his study of advanced ideas in medicine and to some of the doctors here he is known personally.

Bailey a Deep Student

"Dr. Bailey's discovery may add one third more to the length of human life," said Dr. D. T. Krudop. "Dr. Bailey is a deep student and an eminent physician, and any announcement from him bears the stamp of authority."

"The great trouble in the medical profession is the tardiness of physicians in adopting new ideas of value. Why, it was a quarter of a century before one of the greatest discoveries in the treatment of tuberculosis was used by more than a few physicians."

Calls It Foolishness

"The claim or the intimation that this discovery will prolong human life is foolishness," said Dr. Albert Soiland, who is looked upon as the most advanced of the physicians in Los Angeles in the study of the power of radium. "If this is really a substitute for radium it is implied that it is substantially the same thing, and it was never represented that radial activity could add to the length of a man's life. Radium has cured small, surface cancers and that is all."

"It will probably be found that this is not really a substitute for radium. At any rate, any claims of its effectiveness in the treatment of disease are certainly premature, as scientific men will demand repeated tests before accepting the discovery as a real contribution to medicine."

"Dr. Bailey's standing is too high for any discovery announced by him to be looked upon with indifference by physicians," said Dr. F. J. Newberry. "I am personally acquainted with him, and will await with interest the tests of his tho-rad-x."

Downpour of Rain Qualifies Forecaster for "In Bad" Club

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Willis Moore, Chief Weather Forecaster, made a last desperate effort to get into the Atanias club before Roosevelt went out. He qualified all right, but he will have to form a little "In Bad" club of his own. He is in a class by himself. Wednesday he predicted a beautiful day for the inauguration. He figured the storm would spring in a certain direction, hit something and carom off from the national inaugural fest. It sprung the other way and crashed plumb into the midst of the show.

The goose-bone prophets, the astrologists and all the other prophets predicted storms and rain. The one prophet who is without honor now in his own land is Willis Moore.

Now everyone recalls things he did for Grover Cleveland at his second inaugural. It was just a practice stunt compared with this latest achievement. Professor Moore works by system. His predictions are an exact science. He cannot help it when the weather disregards all the rules and runs amuck.

Prospector Expects to Rediscover Treasure Found When He Had Eyesight

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., March 21.—W. E. Gill, the proprietor of a shooting gallery, although totally blind, has left Bakersfield for a prospecting trip on the Mojave desert in the Randsburg country in a search for a lost mine which he claims to have discovered while he was in possession of eyesight.

Gill was formerly a miner by occupation, working in many Western gold camps. Several years ago, while working in Randsburg, he was nearly killed by the premature explosion of a blast. When he recovered he was totally blind, without a chance of ever regaining his sight.

He moved to Bakersfield and opened the shooting gallery which has since furnished him with a comfortable living. Upon the streets here he is a familiar figure, with his black dog, which leads him from place to place.

With this dog and a companion, who has furnished the money for the expedition, Gill has set off on this novel prospecting tour.

"Montana" Jack Sullivan first attracted attention to himself by making capital out of the fact that he once fought a twenty-round draw with Stanley Ketchel when the latter was in the squab class. Now comes another young fighter, Frank Pecore by name, who is trying to edge in on the same kind of a stunt. Pipe the texture of this:

"H. M. Walker, Sporting Editor Los Angeles 'Examiner': I am forwarding you five photographs of Frank Pecore, lightweight champion of Montana, who has a SIX ROUND DRAW WITH STANLEY KETCHEL TO HIS CREDIT. My man is willing to meet Nelson, Welsh or McFarland.

Fair Sex Too Complex to Be Covered by Fig-Leaf Measurements Says One Speaker

LIKEN THEM TO SHEEP

In proof that new bouquets have a tonic effect upon women, Miss Laura Grover Smith, in her address before the Friday Morning Club yesterday, related that a physician had once refused to continue to treat a melancholy woman unless she purchased a new hat with flowers on it.

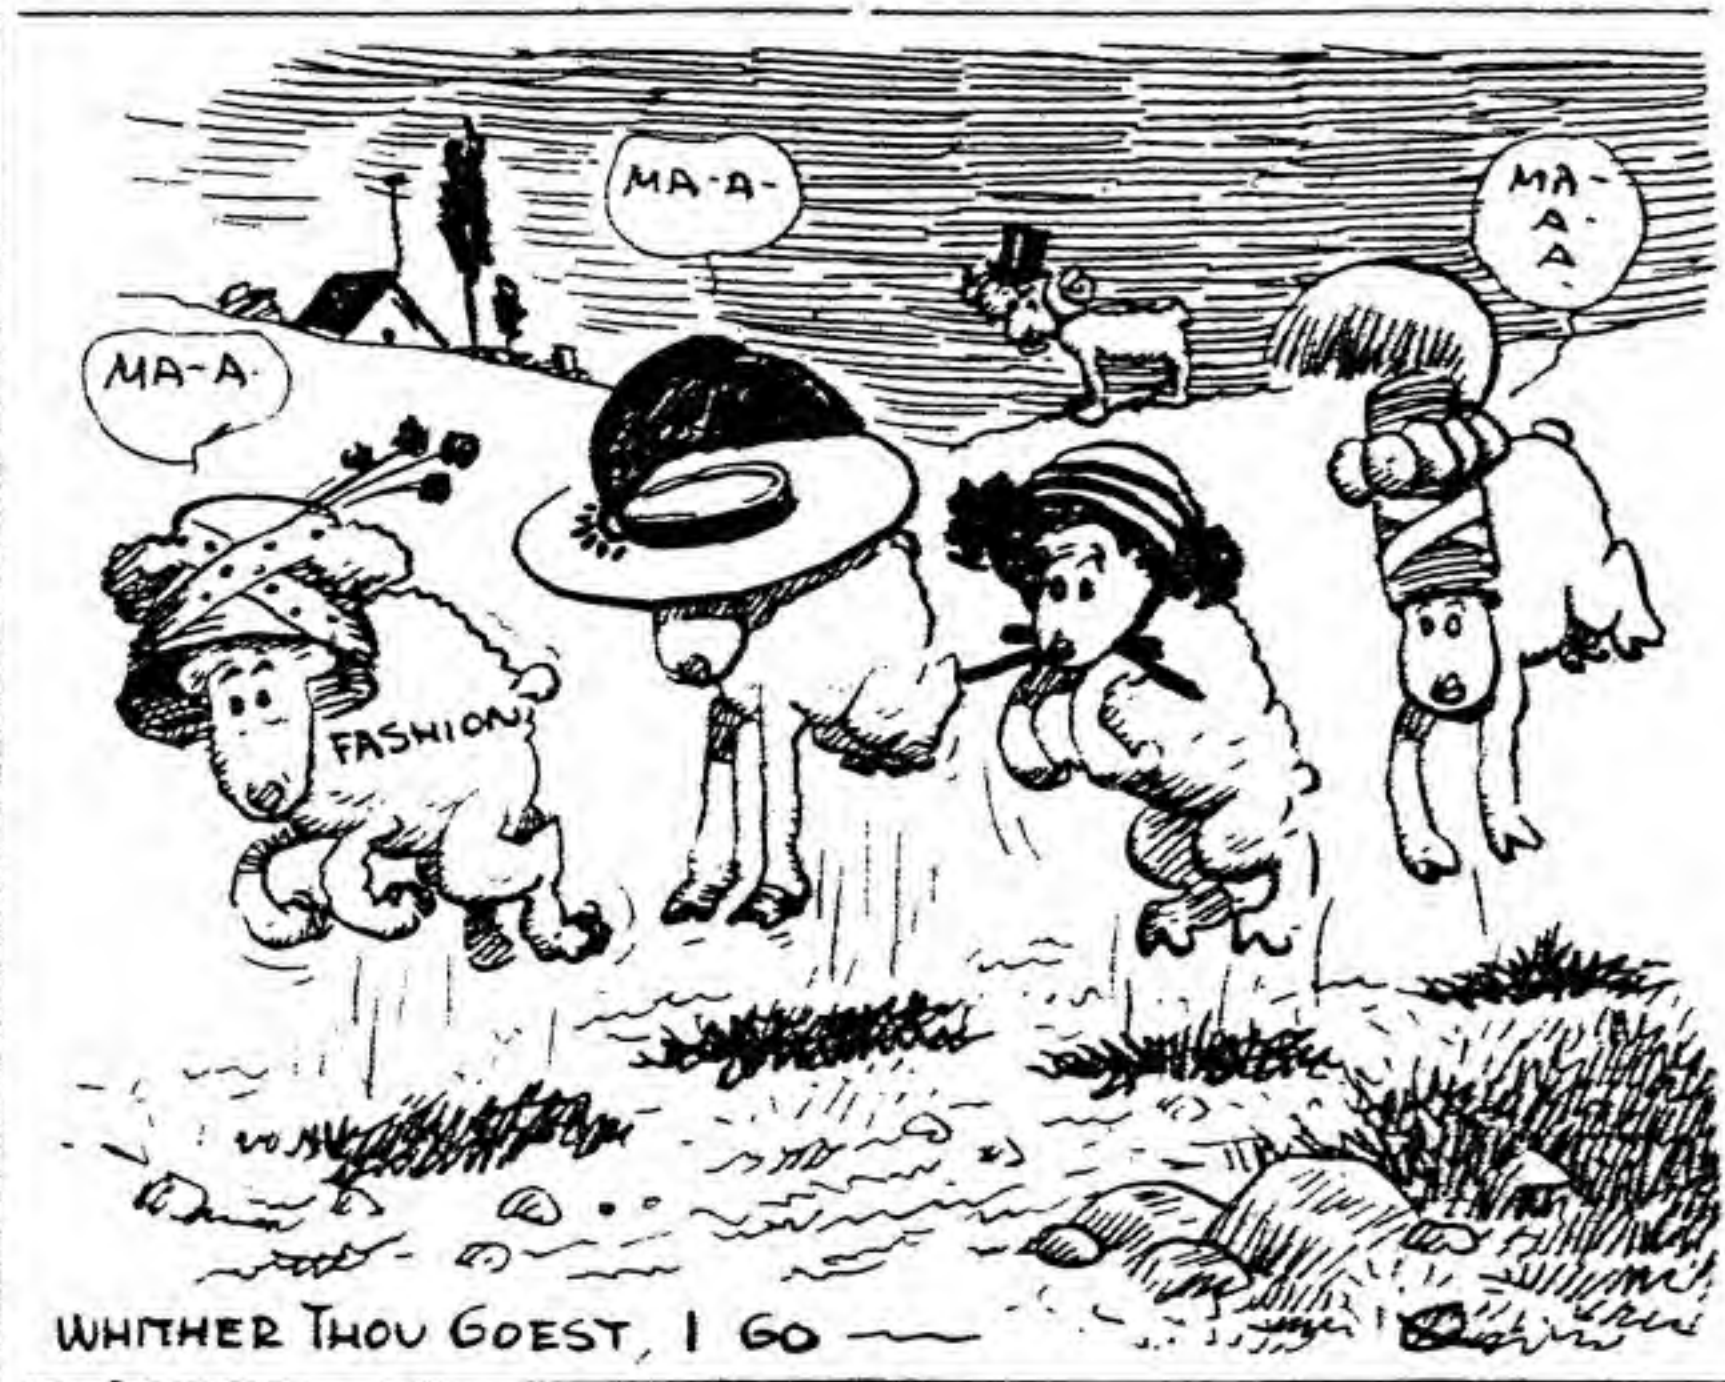

This, coupled with the fact that Mrs. May W. Goldman, another speaker, expressed the conviction that clothes made the woman, made a deep impression upon Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst, who remarked that a dangerous theory had been advanced, and pictured the dire results of placing a flirtatious hat upon the head of a demure woman.

All the vagaries and eccentricities of fashion were discussed by Mrs. Goldman and Miss Smith. Apparently convinced that she was getting at the bottom of things, Miss Smith expressed the belief that husbands like to see their wives with new and becoming hats, and, as a man does not pay for things he does not like, husbands like to pay their wives' millinery bills. Miss Smith also blamed men for many of the absurdities of present-day styles, saying that women dress to please the men.

Follow Leaders in Fashions

Mrs. Goldman described women as like sheep as far as fashion goes, saying that they follow the leader, regardless of results. Taking up the subject of "The Style Is the Woman Herself," Mrs. Goldman said:

"It is true," said Zangwill, "that beauty is only skin deep, but since humanity does not sit in its bones, that is of no conseof the wife and guesses at the income, the temper and temperament of the husband.

'WET LUNCH' SQUAD WORRIES CAFE MEN

Restaurateurs Complain That Police Inspection of "Bona Fide" Meals Hurts Trade

Delegations of restaurateurs have been calling at police headquarters, bearing their own indignation and doing a vicarious traction stunt in the same behalf for guests who, they say, complain most aggrievedly against the rule of the department which sends a pair of uniformed policemen the round of downtown cafes at night.

It appears to have become a feature of the life that Los Angeles leads under the white lights, with its poetic setting of ham sandwiches and steins, to see these impressively accoutered officers parading through the restaurants always looking for something. They look, but still they do not seem to be hungry. Incidentally most of the police commissioners have heard complaints about this custom, and Mayor Alexander has promised an investigation.

HERRIMAN'S VIEW OF CAFE INSPECTION OF 'BONA FIDE MEALS'

VIN, AU BOTTLE DE MILK.

WHILE THE OFFICIAL INSPECTORS ARE BUSY, SLIP THE OFFENDING BOTTLE IN SOME CONVENIENT PLACE OF OBSCURITY.

Recently the police decided to wrestle with a particular cafe problem. There are several of these, the greatest being how to get a square meal for something less than a day's wages. The one in question, however related to the frequenting of a number of cafes by objectionable women.

Inspection Every Two Hours

The department, wishing to discourage these, posted an order that once every hour two patrolmen should visit these cafes and scrutinize the diners and winners. The cafes were segregated according to beats and practically all of the downtown officers were engaged in the esthetic task.

There is another cafe problem which has somewhat complicated the gastronomic review. This is that liquor can be sold only in restaurants with bona fide meals.

To enforce this rule the police department has plain-clothes officers who are experts on the question of bona fide meals. They can assay a meal with the natural eye and say immediately whether it is bona fide. They can see a meal that is non bona fide from the front door to the last table. Bona fide is meat and drink to them; theirs is the wisdom of the bona fide.

Plain Beans Unbona Fide

Every cafe has impressed "bona fide" upon the person who drops in. Beans without trimmings are not bona fide.

Riot Call Leads to Capture of Desperate Bank Robber

—Not

When Fred Woods, night clerk at the Hotel Hayward, looked into the barrel of an automobile gauntlet in the hands of Rufus J. Smith at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, he thought the gauntlet was a revolver and considered himself held up. The gauntlet is shaped like a gauntlet, but closely resembles a revolver to any one who has never seen a revolver.

Woods called up police headquarters and reported that he was held in subjection by a band of bandits.

"Where?" asked the desk sergeant.

SPAIN REBELS ARE SHOT IN DROVES

LONDON, Aug. 6 (Friday), 5 a. m.—"Spain is exacting terrible retribution for the wild deeds of last week," says the Barcelona correspondent of the Daily Chronicle. "Her military judge's boast is no idle one that when the work of repression is finished not even a mouse with anarchistic proclivities will be found in the whole wide province of Catalonia."

"A thousand prisoners, of whom more than a hundred were women and an equal number children, have been confined in Monte Juich fortress, where they are being summarily tried and shot in batches each morning.

"A courtmartial consists of five officers. The prisoners are brought from cells in the castle vaults by a winding staircase and ushered into a narrow apartment, where sit the judges. When they leave it is by another door on the opposite side.

"Their death warrant is already signed. All that is needed to seal their doom is evidence, direct or circumstantial, of premeditation. If there is any smell of petroleum or if there are traces of gunpowder on their hands they are promptly condemned.

"From the finding of the court there is no appeal, chiefly because a very few hours after a sentence is pronounced it is executed.

"Without exception the prisoners met death unflinchingly, being executed in groups of five."

DICK FERRIS' WAR BALLOON COULD HELP THE POULTRY SOME.

Pasadenan Plans Top Flat for Chanticleers, Next for Hens and Lower Floor for Pullets

PASADENA, Oct. 1. One thousand Pasadenans have championed the cause of the chanticleer. Other hundreds are expected to have joined the ranks by Monday night and petitions bearing three or four thousands signatures will undoubtedly be turned over to the council Tuesday protesting the passage of the ordinance eliminating the rooster and practically eliminating the hen from the city.

The ordinance prohibits keeping roosters within 100 feet of a residence. Except in one or two cases this is prohibitory. Hens under 12 in number may be kept within 20 feet of a house. If the number is 13 or more they must live 50 feet away.

The opposition is planning a chicken bake. It may be held tomorrow night in the Arroyo Seco.

Constable Harley Newell has another scheme for defeating the ordinance should the first fight be lost and the measure passed.

He will erect a 100-foot pole, but instead of stationary platforms he will have three he can lower or raise. He will then elevate his roosters to the top, his hens to the 50-foot mark and his 12 pullets to the 20-foot mark. In this way he will gain ground and still obey the ordinance. He will lower his platform to feed and water his chickens. He also believes the roosters, from the top of the pole, will disturb as much of the neighborhood and at an earlier hour, than they would close to the ground. It has been pronounced a grand scheme and will be endorsed largely by property holders.

The members of the city council today have been figuratively dodging the rooster. Whenever one of his constituents approaches the councilman suddenly remembers a purchase in a near-by store. Most of them found excuse to stay at home or stick very closely to business. Protests have been the order of the day at City Hall.

Mayor Earley's secretary has stereotyped the line, "Did you call to see about the chicken ordinance?"

If the answer was affirmative she was sure Mayor Earley was not in. She did not know when he would be back. "Thank you, I will give him your message."

After the visitor retired she would use another stereotyped phrase: "Oh, shucks."

3 BRIDESMAIDS OF MARTIN-STIBOLT WEDDING ARRESTED FOR SPEEDING

Portrait of Mrs. Amy Eloise Martin Stibolt, Who Was Married Yesterday at Christ Episcopal Church After Her Three Bridesmaids Were Arrested for Speeding to the Ceremony in an Automobile.

A SPEEDY HONEYMOON, AND IT'S TOTAL ECLIPSE.

Girls Make Record Run to Church Until Motor Policeman Stops Automobile

Three fluttering bridesmaids seized by a grim minion of the law as violators of the speed ordinance. This was an unexpected complication which for a moment threatened to cloud the Martin-Stibolt wedding in Christ Episcopal Church yesterday. But fair faces and coaxing voices at last won the day, and the three bridesmaids were not dragged to a dark dungeon at the city jail, as they feared, but were told to be in the police court at 9 o'clock this morning.

The wedding of Miss Amy Eloise Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Martin of 600 North Vermont avenue, to Arthur Henry Stibolt of New York was set for 12 o'clock yesterday, and when the bridesmaids gathered at the Hotel Alvarado just before the hour of the ceremony there was little time left for them to get to Christ Church.

Bridesmaids in Hurry

For that reason, when the bridesmaids stepped into an automobile in front of the hotel, the machine was sent along West Sixth street at a clip that attracted attention. In the party were Miss June Whittemore and Miss Leigh Whittemore, daughters of C. C. Whittemore, vice president of the Tonopah and Tidewater railroad, and Miss Edythe Van Alstyne.

Blissfully unconscious that they were fracturing a city ordinance in their haste to hear the opening notes of the wedding march, the girls thought of nothing but orange blossoms and bride roses until a motorcycle rolled close to the side of their automobile and a gruff voice commanded them to come to a standstill.

Ubiquitous Star Twinkles

Instantly the poetry of the occasion changed to the most lugubrious prose as the bridesmaids obediently brought their machine to a stop and gazed with tremulous foreboding upon the glittering star upon a motorcycle policeman's breast. He informed them that they had been exceeding the speed limit fixed by law and that they were in custody.

Aghast, the bridesmaids chorused an appeal for liberty, for the blue skies of freedom and an opportunity to be present at the wedding.

The policeman was stern. "Your names, please," he commanded. Seeing that he was unflinchingly bent upon carrying out his determination to hale them to court, they gave their names and then anxiously awaited the next turn of affairs.

Ordered to Come to Court

"Appear at court at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning," said the grim policeman, and then he mounted his motorcycle and chugged away.

Shudderingly the bridesmaids realized that while they had escaped a dungeon for the nonce they were actually technically in custody.

There were lines of distress upon four fair faces as the automobile was again set in motion. It proceeded at a snail's pace to the church. Arriving there in time for the ceremony, the four bridesmaids saw the nuptial knot tied by Rev. Baker P. Lee.

Miss Martin was gowned in a tailored suit of gray, with a gray beaver hat, trimmed with blue wings. She carried a bouquet of violets which, as she was leaving the church, she threw to the girls of the Pi-Pi sorority, of which she was a member.

Bridal Couple Trapped

Then the bride and the bridegroom vanished. They were found a little later in the Alexandria Hotel dining room. They were not aware that their retreat had been discovered until a page advanced toward them with an immense bouquet of bride roses shouting, "Mrs. Arthur Stibolt!"

Then the wedding party poured in and took possession of an adjoining table. After the bride and bridegroom had been toasted and teased they were followed to the curb outside and showered with rice as they disappeared in a taxicab on their way to the depot to catch a train for San Francisco, where their honeymoon will be spent.

On their return to Southern California they will live at San Diego until Mr. Stibolt returns to New York.

Mr. Stibolt is an architect and designed plans for the U. S. Grant hotel at San Diego now under construction.

CAN LADIES' TAILOR HOLD CITY ATTORNEY'S OFFICE?

HOW GEORGE EDWARDS IS PREPARING FOR HIS GRAND STAR PARTY.

Maker of Feminine Garments Is Nominated; Says He's Cut Out for the Job

Can a ladies' tailor become the city attorney of Los Angeles?

This question was asked the members of the City Council yesterday, and they could not answer it. The Council, after hearing a grave discussion of the question, decided not to commit itself.

GETTING A FRANCHISE GRABBER'S MEASURE

Today the question will be answered, perhaps by a Superior Court judge.

The query was propounded to the Council yesterday by Attorney Arnold R. Holston. Mr. Holston was—and is yet, if the question he raises is answered to his satisfaction—a candidate for the city attorneyship. At the recent primary election, however, Mr. Holston did not get second place. This was awarded by the official count to George Edwards, a ladies' tailor. Holston was third on the list, being preceded both by Leslie Hewitt, the incumbent, and by Edwards.

Now comes Holston with a point of law. Edwards knows all about the fitting of women's gowns, he alleges, but knows nothing of law. Edwards, alleges Holston, never even studied law and could not fill the position of city attorney if he were elected.

For these reasons the name of Edwards should be taken from the ticket and that of Arnold R. Holston should be substituted, the complainant argued.

Edwards, who operates his ladies' tailoring establishment on North Broadway, admitted yesterday that he knew nothing of law. At the same time Mr. Edwards stated that he knew how to fit a gown and how to fit it as it should be. Then he announced that he was in the hands of his friends.

"I was nominated by my friends," he said, "and it seems that about 2000 voters believe that I am cut out for the city attorneyship. I am in the women's tailoring business and have not spent a cent on my campaign. I don't see why Holston should raise this question when neither he nor I has a chance of election.

"If elected, however, I feel that I could fill the bill all right."

Mr. Holston stated last night that he would apply to the Superior Court for a writ of mandamus compelling the City Clerk to place his name and not that of Edwards on the official ballot.

WHEN THE COUNCIL GETS ADVICE FROM THE CITY ATTYS OFFICE
